Congress Faces Pressure for Expanded Food Stamp System

Campaign by Civic Groups Threat to Economy

MANY DEMANDS

Census Chief Urges Tobey To Admit He Is In Error

Washington (AP)—The senate refused today, 56 to 27, to increase from $212,000,000 to $607,000,000 a proposed appropriation for parity payments to farmers.

The $212,000,000 allotment had been added to the house-approved farm bill by the senate appropriations committee, and leaders predicted that sum would be approved finally by the senate. "Parity" payments are designed to give farmers the same purchasing power they had in 1909-14.

Senators Lee (D-Okla.) and Bilbo (D-Miss.) proposed that the fund be increased to $607,000,000. The increase, Lee said, would "give full parity."

The $212,000,000, he added, would provide for substantially less than full parity.

Washington (AP)—Last-minute pressure by civic organizations to expand the government's food stamp system threatened today to push congress toward economy plans further out of kilter.

With the senate debating the farm appropriation bill—already swollen $201,940,049 over budget estimates—economy advocates said there was a growing demand for an additional $28,000,000 to finance distribution of food to needy families through the stamp plan. It now operates in about 60 cities, but applications have come in from 700 others.

Senator Byrnes (D-S. C.) said that sentiment for this increase apparently had been built up by "competition" between chambers of commerce and other civic organizations to win designation as a food stamp distribution center.

How System Works
Under the system, families on relief are given government stamps to obtain certain surplus products from the corner grocery. The government buys back the stamps from the grocer with funds appropriated for disposal of farm surpluses.

The senate appropriations committee voted $85,000,000 for that purpose and for export subsidies, but Senator LaFollette (P-Wis.) proposed an increase to $130,000,000. The senate appropriations committee linked this amount with $212,000,000 for "parity" payments in boosting prospective appropriations $208,968,584 above the house-approved total.

Debate on the farm bill was running longer than leaders had forecast, but they hoped for a final vote tonight.

Before the final vote the chamber had to act on a proposal by Senators Lee (D-Okla.) and Bilbo (D-Miss.) to increase the proposed $212,000,000 fund for parity payments to $607,000,000. The payments would be designed to give farmers the same purchasing power they had in 1909-14.

Other developments included:
A proposed inquiry into the sale of late-model war planes to foreign countries was postponed by the house military committee.
The veterans committee of the house approved a bill to grant $20 a month to childless widows of World War I.

Committee Would End Buying Foreign Silver

Washington (AP)—The senate banking and currency committee approved today a bill that would end all purchases of foreign silver by the treasury.

The committee sent to the senate a bill with a favorable recommendation that legislation by Senator Townsend (R-De.) to end the foreign silver buying authority.

Majority Leader Barkley (D-Ky.), a member of the committee, said the vote was 14 to 4.

Secretary Morgenthau had opposed the Townsend bill yesterday, expressing hope the committee would not do anything which might complicate "chaotic" world conditions.

HITLER, MUSSOLINI IN SECRET BORDER CONFERENCE

A meeting between Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini at Brennero, Italy, opened new avenues for speculation about the possible future course of the European war. Talk centered about a Rome-Moscow-Berlin axis and "neutralization" of the Balkans. Here Hitler (left) and Mussolini clasp hands after their meeting. Just back of Il Duce stands his foreign minister Count Galeazzo Ciano. This photo was radioed from Berlin to New York.

Cromwell Scored For His Address Assailing Nazis

LaFollette and Other Senators Believe He Overstepped Bounds

Washington (AP)—Several members of the senate foreign relations committee said today they believed James H. R. Cromwell, United States minister to Canada, had overstepped the bounds of diplomatic restraint in praising Anglo-French war aims and criticizing Germany.

Senator LaFollette (P-Wis.) said he thought Cromwell had "stepped outside his duties as a minister," adding that declarations on questions of foreign policy should rest with the executive and congress.

Agreeing with LaFollette, Senator Gillette (D-Iowa), said:
"If he was expressing his private opinion, it might be all right, but I hardly think it is within the functions of a minister to express the opinions for the nation unless he is instructed to do so by his government."

Hull Asks Data
Secretary Hull directed Cromwell today to send him at once an official version of Cromwell's Toronto speech.

Hull also asked the American legation in Ottawa to forward a copy, since Cromwell is on a visit to his New Jersey home and might not have one with him.

Hull's request for copies of the speech was of some significance since the state department usually waits for the envoy who makes a speech to send it in.

Representative Sweeney (D-Ohio) demanded an investigation and possible recall of "our playboy minister to Canada."

Sale of Post Office to Hoffman Confirmed

The federal works agency announced today at Washington, D. C., the sale of the old Appleton post office building and site at the intersection of Oneida and Washington streets to Fred H. Hoffman, 625 W. Prospect avenue.

Hoffman's bid was for $18,235. August W. Laabs, who placed the bid, said today that definite plans for the use of the property have not been formulated.

Farley Says Name Will be Presented at Democratic Party Conclave in Chicago

Springfield, Mass. (AP)—Postmaster General James A. Farley asserted today "frankly and without reservation" that his name would be presented to the Democratic national convention at Chicago, and added "and that's that."

Farley's statement, during a time of continued speculation as to President Roosevelt's plans for 1940, was made to newspapers as he arrived here to confer with a group of Massachusetts Democrats. Questions directed at him centered mainly on his action in entering the Massachusetts presidential primary on April 30.

When asked also about reports that he was teaming up with other candidates, he replied:
"Farley is in no combination with anybody. I am deeply grateful to Chairman Burke (William Burke, chairman of the Massachusetts State Democratic committee) and the Democratic party as a whole."

Postpone Quiz on Sale of Airplanes

Woodring Reported Unable to Provide All Necessary Data Today

Washington (AP)—The house military committee unexpectedly postponed its projected inquiry into the sale of late-model war planes to foreign nations today.

Chairman May (D-Ky.) announced, after spectators and members of congress had assembled in the committee room, that Secretary Woodring had informed him he was unable to "gather all the data necessary" in time for submission today.

May, asserting the war department had assured him there was "no desire to conceal anything from the public or the committee," said the hearing would take place early next week and would be in open session.

"Nobody on this committee so far as I know suspected in the slightest that there is any wrong in the war department," May declared. "Our only purpose was getting information for this committee which has to deal with the national defense."

Woman Found Slain Near Seattle; Son Is Facing Arrest

Seattle (AP)—A bizarre and brutal "cupboard slaying" of an attractive 45-year-old Seattle matron sent city and county officers today on an intensive search for her 23-year-old son.

The body of the victim, Mrs. Harriet Redding Arnold, was found beaten, stabbed and trussed late yesterday in the cupboard under the sink drain-board of her suburban bungalow.

Dr. Gale Wilson, county autopsy surgeon, attributed death to 18 stab wounds by an ice pick or some other small weapon, but said her skull also had been fractured by a blunt instrument. She was garroted and trussed with two electric cords and a dog chain. The cupboard had been nailed shut.

A murder warrant was issued last night by Justice Guy B. Knott against Denzel Davis, her son. The complaint was sworn to by Deputy Prosecutor Charles Ralls.

Russia Frowns On Proposal for Defensive Pact

Opposed to Any Alliance Between Finland, Norway and Sweden

Moscow (AP)—Soviet Russia has turned thumbs down on any defensive alliance among Scandinavian states and Finland on the ground that it would be "aimed at the U. S. S. R." and in conflict with the Russian-Finnish peace treaty.

The official Russian news agency, Tass, announced today that it was authorized to publish this as the Russian government's position.

The foreign press alleges that negotiations are going on among Finland, Sweden and Norway in conclusion of a so-called "defensive alliance" for the purpose of military protection of the frontiers of Finland," said the announcement.

"It is also alleged that the Soviet Union does not object to such a 'defensive alliance' among Finland, Sweden and Norway."

Tass is authorized to state that these reports on the attitude of the Soviet Union do not correspond to the facts."

Aimed Against Soviet
Tass said that statements in the Norwegian parliament had made it clear that such a combination would be aimed against the U. S. S. R. and would directly contradict the (Finnish-Russian) peace treaty.

Article 2 of the March 12 treaty of Moscow, which ended three and one-half months of war between Finland and Russia, binds each party not to conclude an alliance or join any coalition against the other.

(Some Finnish and Scandinavian quarters had held that a defensive alliance, if not directed specifically against the Soviet Union would not be barred by this article.)

The president of the Finnish parliament, last night followed up the Finnish parliament's ratification of the treaty with its own formal approval. Two Finnish representatives, Juho Paasikivi and Vaino Voionmaa, had arrived by plane a short while before for the exchange of ratification instruments.

The treaty of Moscow, exacting territory containing most of Finland's defense bulwarks as the price of peace, engendered widespread fear in Scandinavia that what was left of Finland might go the way of what was left of Czechoslovakia after Munich.

Germany won the Czechoslovak Sudetenland at the Munich partition Sept. 29, 1938, and then dissolved the reduced republic on March 15, 1939, with occupation and establishment of a protectorate over Bohemia and Moravia.

Welles Returns To United States

Ends Fact-Finding Mission in Europe for President Roosevelt

Genoa, Italy (AP)—Sumner Welles, fact-finder for President Roosevelt, sailed for the United States today on the Conte di Savoia, winding up his strenuous tour of European capitals.

As Welles sailed today the authoritative Editor Virginia Gayda, writing in Il Giornale d'Italia, asserted Premier Mussolini had informed Welles only of Italy's position and aims in the war. He further said Il Duce had nothing further to add to this after his Brenner pass meeting Monday with Fuehrer Hitler.

The fact that Mussolini did not have another talk with Welles after returning from the Brenner pass was "indicative" of this, wrote Gayda. He added that for the purposes of Welles' informative tour, the two long talks he had with Mussolini Feb. 27 and March 16 were sufficient.

"In an atmosphere of great cordiality and frank sincerity," Gayda said, "were presented the positions, opinions and tendencies of Italy in connection with its vital interests as well as their connection with general European problems."

Siegfried Line Builder Is Munitions Minister

Berlin (AP)—Adolf Hitler today appointed Dr. Fritz Todt, builder of the Siegfried line, as minister of munitions, with instructions to step up production by all feasible means.

Todt, rated an able engineer, long has been Hitler's chief assistant in his most ambitious building projects. He is largely responsible for Germany's system of super-highways.

PUBLISHER DIES

DePere (AP)—John A. Kuypers, 71, one of Wisconsin's oldest newspaper publishers, a former mayor and postmaster and a leader in DePere civic and religious activities, died about 7:15 this morning at his home.

Death was due to heart trouble which followed a paralytic stroke suffered 3 years ago and which contributed to his decline since the first of the year.

Mr. Kuypers founded the DePere Journal in 1890 and in 1919 merged it with the Democrat. He served as president of the Wisconsin Press association from 1918 to 1931.

He was postmaster from Feb. 15, 1915, to Jan. 12, 1925, and served two terms as mayor from 1902 to 1906. Mr. Kuypers served as secretary of the fire department from 1893 to 1900 and as secretary of the board of education, from 1908 to 1924. He was an alderman from 1895 to 1902.

Active in religious circles, Mr. Kuypers was a knight of St. Gregory.

Two Arrested in Insurance Plot Accused of Trying to Hire 'Killer' to Slay Pennsylvanian

Uniontown, Pa. (AP)—A state trooper posing as a "killer" uncovered a bizarre murder-for-insurance plot in which a spiritualist minister and the wife of a tavern-keeper are accused of scheming to kill the woman's husband.

Motor Police Lieutenant William R. Hanna said the Rev. Clayton R. Miller, 63, of nearby Brownsville, and Mrs. Amelia Santilli, 31-year-old attractive brunet of Uniontown, signed statements admitting the frustrated plot, which they blamed each other for originating.

The two waived hearing last night on charges of conspiracy to commit murder and solicitation to commit murder. They were jailed without bond pending action by the June term of court.

The plot outlined by lieutenant Hanna:

The gray-haired Mr. Miller, who is no pastoral assessor, contacted a former convict and requested him to "get some one to take a man for a ride."

The man instead tipped police and the "killer" turned out to be 27-year-old Trooper W. J. Hayes, who was assigned to the case.

The woman showed Hayes a $5,000 insurance policy on her husband which carried a double-indemnity clause for accidental death. When the trooper pressed for information about his pay, he said Mrs. Santilli gave him a signed agreement to pay $2,500 for her husband's death.

Daladier Refuses
At 4 p. m. today, according to circles close to the Elysee palace, Daladier telephoned President Lebrun that he could not attempt to form a new government. Lebrun thereupon called in Reynaud.

As soon as Reynaud was called to the presidential palace reports spread through parliamentary circles that he had been asked to be the new premier.

Until 4 o'clock Daladier had been busy conferring with members of his radical-socialist party and with former Premier Edouard Herriot, now president of the chamber of deputies.

The Daladier government was revised on Aug. 22, 1938, and again on Sept. 13, 1939, after war broke out, in order to make it a national government.

In giving Daladier only 239 votes of confidence out of a membership of 531 in the chamber, following the lead of the senate last week, called for an acceleration and extension of the war against Germany.

Daladier handed the joint resignation of his 22-man government to the president at Elysee palace shortly after a vote of confidence from the chamber of deputies which, because of about 300 abstentions, represented only active support from a minority.

Daladier had given notice that he intended to revise his government and it still was possible that Lebrun, after accepting the collective resignation, would call on Daladier to form a new, streamlined war government.

In such event, today's resignation would stand merely as a formality—an interim episode in the Daladier administration. Besides the premiership, Daladier has held the national defense, war and foreign affairs portfolios.

Promises President Lebrun His Answer Tomorrow Morning

ACTION IS URGED

Cabinet Quits After Receiving Minority Vote Of Confidence

Paris (AP)—Premier Edouard Daladier resigned today amid criticism of France's prosecution of the war against Germany and President Albert Lebrun asked Finance Minister Paul Reynaud to form a "war cabinet."

Reynaud said he would give Lebrun his answer tomorrow morning.

The president called in Reynaud, who has been notably successful at his finance post, after Daladier's radical-socialist party announced the retiring premier's refusal to attempt a new combination.

Daladier declined in conformity with "parliamentary tradition," it was announced. That meant he interpreted as an expression of disappointment of his conduct of the war a minority vote of confidence which the chamber of deputies had given him earlier in the day.

Although the vote was 239 to 1 in his favor, there were more than 300 abstentions in the total chamber membership of 531.

Ask
Some 300 deputies thus showed their disapproval of Daladier's virtual dictatorial rule. His critics had demanded a more extensive and vigorous execution of the war against Germany.

Reynaud, who parliamentary circles thought could speedily form the "action" government for which all the press had been clamoring, entered the presidential palace at 4:45 p. m. (9:45 a. m. C. S. T.) and still was conferring with Lebrun an hour later.

Reynaud as premier was expected to have the support of both rightists and leftists.

As he left the Elysee palace, Reynaud said:
"The president of the republic has paid me the honor of asking me to constitute a new government. I will give him my definite reply tomorrow morning."

Reynaud is a member of the left Republican party, which is slightly to the right of center politically. It is in an alliance of 40 deputies headed by former Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin.

Marshal Graziani in Conference With Duce

Rome (AP)—Premier Mussolini called Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, army chief of staff, into a conference today in which, according to a communique, they "examined certain problems concerning our military preparations."

Marshal Graziani, veteran colonial campaigner, shares the army command with Crown Prince Umberto and is believed to be in direct charge of Italy's northern frontier. An informed source characterized the meeting as "very important."

High Italian sources indicated that they thought that Fuehrer Hitler had informed Premier Mussolini of that intention during their talk at Brenner pass Monday.

Inherited Ills Causing Hoover, Jackson Trouble

Forays Into Local Crime Were Idea of Former Attorney General

BY W. E. RAGSDALE
Washington.—Insiders say the current embassies of Attorney General Jackson and J. Edgar Hoover, the FBI spookplug, are not ill of their own making, but were inherited from Jackson's predecessor.

They blame many of the outbursts on Capitol Hill against the FBI and the justice department on the forays into local crime which were made while Supreme Court Justice Murphy was attorney general. It worked like a slow fuse, and the explosion did not happen until after Murphy had been moved to the bench.

Since then, senators and house members have been getting reprimands from their home districts. Several have taken complaints to the floor of house or senate. Others have gone straight to the justice department. Their most frequent demand has been to know what the FBI thought it was doing monitoring around with local gambling and vice situations.

When Murphy was attorney general, one of the most common questions at his press conferences was the inquiry when he was going "into Miami," or "into New Jersey," or into some other locality.

The FBI did go into Miami. It made a pretty thorough study of gambling and vice conditions in that area.

A variety of illuminating information on who was partner with whom and what was going on behind the scenes in the Miami casinos was elicited.

But Murphy is not attorney general any more. The present point of view is that it is not the job of the FBI to police local areas. The material assembled in Florida has been turned over to the state attorney general.

Vandenberg Decides Against Personal Tour in Wisconsin

Milwaukee.—(P)—Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, has decided against making a personal appearance tour in Wisconsin prior to the state's delegate primary April 2.

"My primary responsibilities are on the floor of the senate as long as this important session lasts, and these responsibilities are particularly pressing during the next few months," he stated last night in a letter to Lieutenant Governor Walter S. Goodland, a Vandenberg candidate for delegate-at-large to the Republican convention.

Asserting that it was impossible "personally to participate in your contest," Vandenberg pointed out that he was a member of both the senate finance and foreign relations committees which are now "engaged in highly serious issues."

"I am sure you will agree that I can best serve the cause by diligence upon the job," he said.

The letter also stated: "I deeply appreciate the invitation which you and your associates have given me to speak in Wisconsin ahead of your presidential primaries. I should like to do anything within my power to indicate to all of you how grateful I am for the generous expression of confidence which your voluntary support bespeaks, and to impress Wisconsin with my deep desire to justify this faith if it shall be the judgment of Wisconsin and other states, that I am suited to the high responsibility of leading the Republican forces in this utterly critical campaign of 1940."

The choice of the convention should flow from the deliberate judgment of the American people and not from the transient impulse of a campaign tour. If the convention ultimately chooses me, I shall then enter the campaign with every ounce of energy at my command.

"No one need guess where I stand on any of the issues of the day. I add nothing to Wisconsin's relevant information about me by stumping your state, and I could take nothing from the record as it stands. I submit this record to Wisconsin's verdict. It is a far better basis for an authentic opinion than anything I could say."

Declaring "the little census blitzkrieg" had about spent its force, William L. Austin, director of the census, appealed today to Senator Tobey (R-N.H.) to make peace by admitting that he had erred in his denunciation of questions to be asked in the enumeration.

The census director made public a long letter to the senator, who won the senate commerce committee's approval recently of a resolution asking the census bureau to abandon proposed inquiries about personal income. Tobey appealed vainly yesterday to Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, for an agreement that the resolution would be taken up in the senate before the census started April 2.

Austin wrote: "Now that the little census blitzkrieg which you led so gallantly seems about to have spent its force, and since we are approaching the Easter season when the spirit of charity and forgiveness should prevail, I am writing to ask you to join with me in binding up the wounds."

In the interest of "a good census," the director added, Tobey should: Withdraw an allegation that census-takers would ask people whether they had ever been divorced and explain that they would ask only, as in every census since 1890, what the present marital status of each person was.

Withdraw a statement that occupations would be asked only of men and "be generous enough to admit, therefore, that this question has no relation to mobilization for war, but is intended simply to get basic statistics on the nation's industrial and occupational skill."

Admit that proposed questions on personal income would apply only to wages up to $5,000, and not to other income.

Admit that the census bureau had never, in 150 years, violated the confidential nature of the census answers.

returned "hours ago" from this morning's photographing flight and that there was no action against Sylt this afternoon.

Poor visibility compared with the bright moonlight and drifting clouds that aided the British last night and early today, prevented the British coastal observers from estimating accurately the number of planes involved in the follow-up raid.

They said, however, that apparently there were six groups of bombers, with the reverberating explosions equal or nearly equal to those previously, and German anti-aircraft batteries keeping up a terrific defense.

State Job Office Placements Show 51 Per Cent Hike

Employment Service Secures Work for 1,941 Persons in 1939

Private placements of unemployed persons by the Wisconsin State Employment Service office here showed an increase of 51 per cent in 1939 and 74 per cent over a 4-year average, according to Fred R. Gehrke, manager.

The Appleton office referred 2,337 applicants to employers in its district resulting in 1,541 placements. Of this total, 1,682, or 89 per cent were placements in private enterprises.

Gehrke said that the gains in placements are due somewhat to the improvement in business but generally to the fact that employers in all branches of industry and business are more fully acquainted with the service of the employment office and are using its facilities.

During 1939, Gehrke said, members of the office staff made 529 visits to employers to offer services and employers visited the W.S.E.S. office 200 times during the year seeking workers.

Placement Separation
A breakdown of placements made last year shows that 452 persons were employed by manufacturing plants through the efforts of the Appleton office, 200 in wholesale and retail establishments, 94 in hotels, restaurants and resort classifications, 19 in professional pursuits, 28 in public utilities and communications, 437 in personal service and 231 in the farm group. The breakdown covers 160 occupational classifications.

Thirty-four openings in the Appleton district were filled by persons from other districts in the state because no qualified applicants were available locally while 37 local applicants were placed through the Appleton office outside of its district by use of the W.S.E.S. clearances.

The average active file during the last year of persons seeking employment through the Appleton office totaled 3,259 men and 1,078 women, a total of 4,337. This figure is approximately a 50 per cent increase over the number of applications on file during 1938.

Reason for Increase
Gehrke attributed the increase to the increasing number of employers requesting job seekers to file their applications at the employment office instead of at individual plants, and to the increased activity in the itinerant field of the local office, which covers Outagamie and Waupaca counties.

In addition to receiving applications of persons seeking employment and soliciting job openings from employers, the employment office recorded 20,962 claims for unemployment compensation benefits in 1939, a decrease of 45 per cent from 1938. This indicates a substantial stabilization of employment in the Appleton district, Gehrke said.

Denies Interview
Mr. Roosevelt told reporters late yesterday that the column was made out of whole cloth and that such an interview with a legislator had not taken place. He said he never had made the remark about Farley and that the rest of the article was equally false.

Lindley issued a statement last night describing his column as a piece of straight reporting of information which came to me from sources whose reliability I have no reason to doubt.

Vandenberg's statement was contained in almost identical letters to Lieutenant Governor Walter S. Goodland of Wisconsin, and Kenneth S. Wherry, chairman of the Nebraska Republican committee. He said that his membership on the senate finance and foreign relations committee required his full attention here, and added:

"Furthermore, I have persistently clung to the view that the presidential decision this year is too desperately important to be pursued in the interest of any personal aspiration."

"The choice of the convention should flow from the deliberate judgment of the American people and not from the transient impulse of a campaign tour."

"Holding this view, it would be out of character for me personally to enter this primary contest."

Friends of Vandenberg, who will be 56 on Friday, have entered delegate states pledged to him in both the Wisconsin and Nebraska primaries.

Mother Admits Killing Her 8-Week-Old Baby

Mt. Clemens, Mich.—(P)—Wilbur F. Held, assistant prosecutor of Macomb county, said today that Mrs. Vivian Mathews, 38, mother of three children, had killed her eight-week-old baby by placing him between kerosene-soaked pillows and igniting them in a small stove.

Held said Mrs. Mathews, brought here, had signed a confession. Neighbors told police she had threatened to kill the baby because it was "too much trouble."

The prosecutor said Mrs. Mathews had undergone treatment for a mental disorder 10 years ago.

Tutors Youth in Art Of Stealing Chickens

Belleville, Ill.—(P)—A 71-year-old man has been charged with teaching a boy the art of chicken-stealing on a 50-50 basis.

The boy, 14, admitted stealing chickens under the tutelage of his "partner," who instructed him on catching the fowl without their making noise. He then sold the chickens, giving part of the money to the old man.

Grasshopper Bloc Upsets Congress

Senate Rejects Million Dollar Reduction in Control Funds

Washington.—(P)—A hastily-formed but powerful "grasshopper bloc" upset congressional routine in the senate yesterday by rejecting a senate-house agreement on a $90,000,000 appropriation bill because of a $1,000,000 reduction in grasshopper control funds.

Usually when a conference committee adjusts senate and house differences over appropriation bills these compromises go speeding through, but the "grasshopper bloc" defeated this one on a roll call test, 44 to 25, in an effort to force a vote in the house.

Middle western and farm state senators ignored party lines under leadership of Senator Norris (Ind.-Neb.), LaFollette (Prog.-Wis.), Nye (R-N.D.), and Gillette (D-Iowa) to force the unusual test.

The dispute centered on the amount the federal government should have this spring to furnish poison bait for the plant pests. The house voted $2,000,000, the senate increased this to $3,000,000, but the senate-house group accepted the lower house total.

The senate vote now will force another conference with the $1,000,000 item probably going back for a separate house vote.

Navy Head Will Seek Post in New Jersey

West Orange, N. J.—(P)—Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison announced today he would seek the Democratic nomination for governor of New Jersey.

Edison, in a statement from his home here, said that "after weeks of earnest consideration and with a full appreciation of the seriousness and responsibilities of the step I am taking, I have decided to permit my name to go on the petition for nomination as governor of New Jersey on the Democratic ticket."

No serious opposition was expected to Edison's bid for the nomination.

The Democratic incumbent, governor A. Harry Moore, is ineligible to succeed himself.

Given Sentence for Counterfeiting Coins

Milwaukee.—(P)—Frank Trawitzke of Milwaukee, charged with counterfeiting two nickels, was sentenced to 30 days in the house of correction yesterday by Federal Judge F. Ryan Duffy.

Trawitzke, accused of passing one of the coins to a 14-year-old newsboy, said he manufactured the nickels merely to prove he could do it.

Mrs. Rosalie Fucca of St. Louis, accused of passing counterfeit $10 bills in Walworth and Rock counties, was placed on probation for two years. Trial of four men, defendants with her, has been set for April 15.

Probe Explosion of Plant in Louisiana

Baton Rouge, La.—(P)—Officials today sought an explanation of an explosion at the Ethyl-Du Pont gasoline-blending plant which killed three persons, injured others and rocked the state capitol building.

The dead were Clifton Couey, 21, of New Orleans; Justin Hughes, 31, of Dallas, Texas; and Henry Kingberger, 23, of Plaquemine, La.

Officials estimated damage to the plant at $100,000.

Allied Governments Undergo Strain as Demands for More Vigorous Policies are Aired

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
New York.—(P)—Insistence on more action in the war gave the allied governments a rather rough passage yesterday.

Both were subjected to pointed demands by critical members of parliament for a more vigorous policy, but while British Prime Minister Chamberlain came through the ordeal ruffled though sound, Premier Daladier presented the resignation of his cabinet because of lack of sufficient direct support in a vote of confidence.

The debate in the house of commons was searching, it brought from Premier Chamberlain the declaration that Britain intends to fight to a finish for just such a moral peace as President Roosevelt outlined Saturday.

But the English statesman failed to indicate to anxious inquirers what action would be taken, or when.

Maybe he was depending for his answer on the sensational British air-raid on the German air-base at Sylt, in retaliation for the Nazi bombing of Scapa Flow the day before. However, while this was an encouraging demonstration of air might for allied peoples, it scarcely served to answer their burning questions—what does the Anglo-French brotherhood intend to do about assuming the initiative, and when.

The pressure has increased since Hitler put the next move up to his opponents by forcing the Russo-Finnish peace, thereby forestalling an allied intervention which might have been disastrous for Germany. Criticism has grown with the sensational Brenner pass meeting between Hitler and Mussolini, at which a triple entente is claimed to have been projected.

The charge that the government had allowed the Nazis to keep the initiative was shot at the prime minister's grey head.

Mr. Chamberlain's curt response to charges of inaction was typical of his cautious, but determined nature.

"We cannot be hustled into adventures which appear to us to present little chance of success. Much chance of danger and perhaps disaster."

Those four words, "We cannot be hustled," represent the policy which has been pursued by Premier Chamberlain as far back as the breaking of the Hitlerian crisis at the time of Munich. He declines to be stampeded, and once the conservative Mr. Chamberlain has his mind made up, it would take a traction engine to move him.

May Bring Answer
The present agitation in England and France may bring an answer as to whether the allies intend to continue dependence on the blockade to the exclusion of military offensives. It is only fair to say that, while Mr. Chamberlain was able to declare that Britain is ready to meet anything which may grow out of the Brenner pass conference, still the allies only now are rounding out the preparations for a war of action.

England and France haven't yet reached their peak of preparedness. However, they seem pretty well set for action.

Observers have looked upon the big allied concentration of troops in the Near East as providing a logical opportunity for a strategic move against Germany from the rear through the Balkans. There have been increasing indications that this move was under serious consideration. It might come with the spring.

Banker Is Given 2-Year Sentence

Chippewa Falls Man Admitted Violating National Bank Act

Superior.—(P)—Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone imposed a two-year federal penitentiary sentence on William T. Sullivan, 51, former president of the Chippewa Falls National bank of Chippewa Falls, when he pleaded guilty yesterday to violating the National Bank Act.

Sullivan was charged on one count with misappropriating $275; on another with misapplication of $5,850 of a trust fund, and on a third count with making a false entry of $24,000 in a bond account held in trust by the bank.

Another former bank employee, Clarence J. Waterbury, of Abbottsford, received a suspended sentence of a year and a day. He pleaded guilty to misappropriating $1,200 from the Colby State bank, where he was a bookkeeper.

Frank Soulier, of Red Cliff, was fined $10, given a suspended six-month jail sentence, and placed on probation for one year on a charge of introducing liquor on an Indian reservation.

Charles Galkins and Everett and Alfred Reddick, operators of a Wausau vending machine company, pleaded guilty to using the mails to defraud. Judge Stone fined them $50 apiece and placed them on probation for three years.

Winter Routed, Spring Rolls Into Appleton This Afternoon

BY DON ANDERSON
The Spring Limited arrived in Appleton at 2:24 this afternoon. No gala receptions, no windy speeches greeted the return of the season that smacks of robins and new topcoats and roller skates, but that doesn't mean the new visitor isn't welcome. The release of winter's grip is annually one of the most widely acclaimed events in the Midwest.

As spring officially takes over, it marks the end of a winter that, in Appleton at least, has been little short of fantastic, in comparison to former years.

The winter of 1939-40 will be remembered for a freakishly mild December, with only 1.1 inches of snow, and for Christmas and New Year days on which the countryside gave little indication of the time of year.

Although there were only slight traces of snow on the ground in Christmas day of 1936 and New Year day of 1937, a survey of weather charts prepared by the Wisconsin Michigan Power company shows that this winter's Yuletide season was probably the least wintry in many years.

On Dec. 5, .8 of an inch of snow was recorded. On Dec. 21, the charts show .03 inches. There were traces on Dec. 30 and 31, only the thinnest of flurries, and the snowfall column is then devoid of any figures at all until Jan. 4, when "traces" were evident again.

Not until the weekend of Jan. 13 and 14 did Old Man Winter begin to roar, presenting Appleton and vicinity with a thick, sticky storm that tied traffic up.

Mild December
Lack of snow was the most remarkable but certainly not the only screwy angle on this winter's holiday season. Not until Dec. 30 did the mercury fall below the zero level, and then only one degree. On Christmas day, for example, the thermometer hit a high of 28 and the previous day, 34. On Dec. 10, it's maximum was an incredible 55.

The winter of 1939-40 will be remembered for a January that suddenly brought forth winter's vengeance in a blast of sub-zero weather and one memorable weekend blizzard. Where December's temperature of 30.9 was far above the average and eight degrees more than in the previous year, January acted oppositely.

There were 11 days in January when the thermometer dipped beneath the zero level, six of them a row, and the average temperature of 12.3 was more than 10 degrees colder than in the corresponding month of 1939. A minimum of 19 below zero was one of the coldest readings in recent years.

Then, to complete the screwy cycle, February came along in a comparatively mild vein and showed its average up to 22.5 which is above normal and higher than in the previous year.

The winter of 1939-40 will be remembered for some of its singular and baffling behavior, but most of its career will be quickly forgotten in the rush of warm air, the practice golf swings, the convertible coupes, and the new styles.

Appleton is ready and anxious to welcome the spring of 1940, to put away the heavy clothes and snow shovels and to open the windows wider.

Changes are Made in Teachers' Contracts

Waupaca—A few changes in the much discussed contracts offered the faculty by the board of education, were made at a special meeting of the board of Monday evening. The changes include raising the cumulative sick leave from 14 days as stipulated in the original contract to 20 days as was the custom for many years. The other change regarded penalties to be inflicted when a contract is broken. The new contract will read: "Until Aug. 1 no penalty shall be charged, and from Aug. 1 to opening of school 1 per cent penalty until the end of the first semester and 5 per cent thereafter during the term of the contract."

Lenten Thought For Today

Wednesday, March 20. And at night he went out and abode in the mount. Read Luke 21:34; 22:1.

Every meditation upon Wednesday of Jesus' last week before the cross has its theme already furnished; for of this day in Jesus' life there is no record, and the most reverent imagination dare not fill the day with what He thought or said or did; save that when the day was done His hour had struck and He was ready. Consider, then, our unrecorded days.

Most days in our lives are unrecorded because they continue our sustaining routine; because they are uneventful; because they are so often happy days which we accept without noting them—and date only when they are gone.

But the issues of life are in such unnoted days and seasons. Then the past ripens; then the future germinates. "God," said Martineau, "has so arranged the chronometry of our spirits that there shall be thousands of silent moments between the striking hours." And the striking hours only make articulate the silent moments. How much we need to guard them.

Prayer: O Master of the Unrecorded Hours, out of Whose silence came the words of life and Who from those seasons of which we have no memory didst go out to the labor of love and mercy, may we so live in our days which seem to leave no record, that when our high hours strike we shall meet their summons in Thy spirit. Amen.

$2,500 Building Project on Camp Site Is Proposed

Council Defers Action Pending Parley With Hatten Fund Group

New London—Plans for a proposed $2,500 community building on the city camp site west of the American Legion clubhouse as a W. P. A. project financed by the Hatten Memorial fund were discussed by the common council at its regular meeting last night and action deferred pending a joint meeting with the Hatten fund committee. A special meeting for next Tuesday evening.

The proposed building is one similar to the present shelter house at Hatten park except that it would be entirely enclosed with kitchen, toilet rooms, and main hall 30 by 50 feet. The stone building would measure 30 by 80 feet overall. A retaining wall along the river also is contemplated as a work project.

The plans must be approved by the council before submitting to W. P. A. authorities for acceptance as a project. It appeared to be the feeling among councilmen, expressed last night by William Lutz and Lynn Springmire, that the money should be used to complete work already started in the park, such as a roof over the stadium, improved roads and walks, more outdoor fireplaces and benches and increased toilet facilities.

Alderman Springmire also introduced the suggestion to abandon the city's annual wood lot project in favor of work on interceptor sewers for the future sewage disposal plant which the city must ultimately install. The city can buy wood cheaper than it can cut it, he reported.

No Sidewalk

On inquiry of Alderman Harry Ernans as to the fate of the proposed sidewalk construction on Dorr street, it was explained that the sum for the work was stricken from the 1940 budget and it will not be done this year.

The right of out-of-town bakers to sell house-to-house in the city was questioned by Springmire and Chief of Police Harry D. Macklin reported that such actions had been investigated and that it was found that the sellers were filling orders taken previously and were not peddling in violation of the present city ordinance. The inquiry was prompted by complaints of local bakers.

The report of Police Justice Fred J. Rogers of $25 in fines for the month of February was accepted and filed.

The bill of three W. P. A. workers for transportation allowance of 2 cents per mile to out-of-town projects was approved and a claim of $7 for alleged over assessment of real estate taxes was disallowed because the taxpayer failed to present his complaint before the board of appeals.

THE MALADY OF TAX UNCONSCIOUSNESS

The state beverage tax division this year will collect nearly $10,000,000 in tax revenues, John W. Roach, head of the division, told an Appleton club meeting recently.

That statement, coming when it did, fitted in nicely with another public announcement, the statement of the Wisconsin Taxpayers' Alliance describing as a "strange phenomenon" the citizen demanding more public services and at the same time expecting, if not getting, lower taxes.

Doubtless Mr. Roach deserves credit for the efficient manner in which he has conducted the activities of the state tax division in the last year. It is not for him to question the wisdom of the laws, but to enforce them. He has increased the yield of the tax laws, lowered costs of collection appreciably, and strictly apprehended violators.

Yet his speech gives us the explanation of the Alliance's "strange phenomenon". Mr. Roach's collections are from taxes which are largely hidden. Yes, they are common knowledge, and get plenty of publicity. But do you imagine that our drinking friends realize the tribute they pay when they buy a bottle of wine or liquor at the corner store? Do we all remember that we give two cents to the Madison tax collector, and even more to federal revenue agents, every time we buy a package of cigarettes? Does the laborer drinking his glass of beer after the day's work recognize that a sizeable portion of the price he paid lands in the state and federal treasuries, helping to support the thousands of governmental services which have grown up in recent years?

In most instances, he does not. The cost of government, to most people, is represented by such more direct and periodic assessments as the property tax, and the income taxes paid in the higher income brackets. So all too often the average man and his neighbors are willing to support proposals for extensions of government services, and higher budgets, and inevitably higher taxes, under the delusion that he will benefit while others pay the bill.

Most of us are inclined to ignore, if not to forget, despite such publicity as that given to Mr. Roach's speech, that the tobacco and alcohol taxes collected by his agents bring in more money to the state treasury than all the normal personal income taxes collected by the state government in Wisconsin during the same year.

Yet, as was shown in several hundred thousands of Wisconsin households last week as the income tax deadlines arrived, the income tax is the one which has the most direct effect, which brings home to the taxpayer most forcefully the cost of his government, and thereby educates him to the value of economy and cautious spending policies.

As long as we support our government by the relatively painless taxes, the assessments on beer, liquor, gasoline, tobacco and other articles bought and sold daily, we aren't conscious of paying as we pay. So long too will it be difficult to reduce the tax load. One remedy for this nation-wide malady, the habit of tax-paying citizens demanding ever more government services, is to put more emphasis on direct taxes.

We hazard the guess that if the 1939 legislature had abolished Mr. Roach's division by repealing the taxes which he is now charged with collecting, and substituted higher income taxes to bring in the same amount of revenue, there would now be 10 supporters of a lower state budget for every actual, lonely advocate of economy today.

EXPLANATIONS WANTED

In about two weeks Wisconsin voters will be expected to indicate their preference at the polls for one of five separate slates of candidates for delegate seats at the national Republican and Democratic conventions.

The Republican delegate candidates are specifically pledged to Mr. Dewey or Mr. Vandenberg, both avowed candidates. No questions there.

But the Democratic slates open some doubts. There is a group of candidates working for Mr. Garner. But there are also two rival slates ostensibly pledged to the renomination and reelection of President Roosevelt. They are third terms.

But Mr. Roosevelt has thus far refused to hint whether he will seek another term in the White House. Since it is unlikely that he has confided his plans either to Mr. Broughton or Mr. Keller, the leaders of the two third term slates in Wisconsin, we must assume that these gentlemen are gambling.

What then, will be the course of the Keller and Broughton delegates when Mr. Roosevelt announces, as he may, that he is not a candidate? Suppose Mr. Keller's men are elected. To whom are they then pledged? They have not yet discussed that question publicly.

Mr. Broughton's position is even more dubious. His official standard, the slogan to be printed beneath his candidate's names on the ballot is "Roosevelt-Farley." Precisely what does that mean? Mr. Broughton has not yet explained, despite inquiries, beyond the comment that the mention of the postmaster general must be interpreted merely as a compliment to him. Yet there are many people who believe that the Broughton slate will become a Farley slate the moment Mr. Roosevelt makes public his intention to retire.

There are some explanations in order here, and we hope they will be made before the April election.

ORPHANS OF THE CENSUS STORM

Checking his usual smile with one of the Practorian Guard our noble President's visage became grave as he told reporters that for the first time in our history a senator of the United States had advocated open violation of the law by the people in advising them to refuse to answer certain census questions classed as personal or intimate.

The senator, Tobey, a Republican, has committed two gray and solemn offenses in the President's mind. He has trespassed upon the White House prerogative of advising a wholesale violation of law, and he has transgressed upon Mr. Roosevelt's copyrighted privilege of weeping upon the shoulders of the masses and wailing to high Heaven of the wrongs done them.

It was from the White House itself, and since Mr. Hoover has been president, that Congress was advised in writing to disregard the constitution itself in order to write the Guffey coal bill.

But what really hurts the throbbing heart of Mr. Roosevelt is to see his political opponents so foolishly tender with the people, in fact as ridiculously so as the President himself.

The stumbling stone is that question about incomes. The bleeding hearts of the Republicans are all aquiver at the idea of making the non-income tax group tell the Census Bureau what the income-tax group tells the Treasury Department. It is all very puzzling. The horny-handed son of toil cannot stand the shock of a question the business man discusses openly with the government, its auditors, supervisors and what not.

But it is still more puzzling to imagine what will happen about the nation's "ill-fed, ill-clothed and ill-housed" if those questioned get the idea of telling fairy tales since there is no way to audit or verify their tales or their figures.

Secretary Hopkins has made a violet-scented suggestion that may save the Democrats in this critical year and rout their traditional enemies back headlong into their caves. He proposes to permit any objector to send in his statement of income in an unsigned letter, unseen by the census taker, to Washington. Thus he demonstrates his great value to the Administration even though the information so gathered will be wholly without value.

The Republican attack upon the census is like the sobbing of those nervous women called weeping willows. It was time to cry whether there were cause or not. And the President has been cut to the quick that anyone should beat him in finding a pretense for tipping over the tear-ducts about the woes and the miseries of "the common people" who will be broken hearted if asked questions.

THE LAST SHOW

The snow clings closely to the apple bough, jealous of the more fragrant white that even now Stirs in its brittle veins. Soon every twig will hold its own dew pearl. Across the orchard big Gray veils will fall, all luminous with light; and from the South the birds will wing in homeward flight.
This is the last stand of the clean white snow.
Whiter and Jeweller are apple blooms that glow Upon the twisted arms of an old tree that age has withered. Soon, by April's hand set free,
The sap will fill its limbs with youth, and dull winter will drop away. Vital and beautiful
The apple petals garlanding its boughs will bless the wayfarer who stops to dream and drowse.

A current magazine editorial saying that organized labor "must clean house" is less remarkable for its content than for the identity of the periodical making the demand.
The pinko New Republic has displayed much more than an average willingness to overlook the sins of commission and omission of the labor movement. Yet in this article it comes finally to the conclusion that "if labor doesn't clean its own house, the job will be done by someone else in a way that neither labor nor its friends will like."
Too many union leaders, it says, cling to "the

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND

BY DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Washington—Backstage, all the stew over whether the allies are getting planes ahead of the United States army and navy boils down to a personal vendetta between the secretary of war and the secretary of the treasury, plus some needling by younger army air corps officers.

It happens that Treasury Boss Henry Morgenthau asked for and got the job of coordinating airplane purchases, and his bouncing little cabinet colleague, Harry Woodring, doesn't like it. If you note the congressmen who are stirring up the investigation on Capitol Hill, they are chiefly friends of Secretary Woodring.

Real fact is that although Morgenthau has made some minor mistakes, his chief error has been in offending people. Army and navy plane purchases have not suffered. Both Secretary of the Navy Edison and Assistant War Secretary Johnson, who has charge of purchases, testify to this.

United States planes have been delivered on time, and no secret planes are getting to the allies.

Morgenthau's chief boner was in asking the quartermaster general of the army, Major General Henry Gibbins, and the paymaster general of the navy, Rear Admiral Ray Spear, to sit on his allied purchasing coordinating committee. Neither knows anything about airplanes. Younger officers of the air corps resent this, and have been squawking, though the able chief of air corps, General Arnold, hasn't.

WORRIED MORGENTHAU

Morgenthau got into the airplane picture because this is the one big commodity the allies are purchasing and he told the president he didn't want their financing operations to upset the United States money market. To pay for the planes, the allies are dumping American securities, plus United States government bonds and Morgenthau didn't want them to depress his own government offerings. (He has to issue new ones constantly.)

Siding with Morgenthau are several big shot army-navy men, including Johnson and Edison, who say that the more planes the allies buy here, the more it helps the United States army and navy to develop better planes.

For instance, the Glenn Martin company is building a brand new bomber for the French. But as a partial result of experimenting for the French, Martin also has developed a new bomber for the United States which will almost fly circles around the French planes.

Also Lockheed is selling several hundred tip-top planes to the British and French. This has helped it develop a new pursuit plane, which will make about 400 miles per hour. It is the first twin-motored pursuit plane, has a liquid-cooled engine and is expected to astound the world's fighting forces.

Experts say that airplane types change so rapidly that a new plane is out of date in almost six months. Therefore, British and French purchases are enabling the United States to develop both types and factories, giving the army and navy the cream of the crop.

OLD SPANISH CUSTOM

When Cordell Hull's career boys persuaded him and Roosevelt to recognize Franco's Spanish government last year, their chief argument was the protection of the International Telephone and Telegraph company which had a monopoly on the Spanish telephone.

The pro-Farist clique among the career boys said that they had a pledge from General Franco that the I. T. and T. would be turned back to its American owners if the Spanish Fascists were recognized.

That was last winter. Twelve months have passed, and still the I. T. and T. has not been able to take back its property in Spain. Nazi technicians are helping to operate it for Franco. Stochens Behn, head of the company, was kept waiting months on the border, and even after he got into Spain he was given nothing.

The state department has made representation after representation to Franco reminding him of his pledge. The Spanish dictator does nothing. At present Mr. Hull's assistants are preparing a new and vigorous note, but what they can do about it remains to be seen.

Now Franco has the American telephone system, plus United States recognition, plus even an Export-Import Bank loan of $12,000,000.

IRISH IN HIM

Representatives John McCormack of Mass., and U. S. Guyer of Kansas, were admiring the portrait of Vice President Jack Garner which hangs in the foyer of the house reading room. Shaggy-haired Guyer is a Republican and an ardent prohibitionist, but there was no trace of prejudice in his appraisal of the picture.

"It is very striking, very striking," he exclaimed. "I've never seen a likeness of the vice president in which he appeared so radiantly happy."

"That's the Irish beaming out of him," shot back McCormack, a strong third-term advocate, with a roguish grin.

Note—There was more truth than blame in the remark. Garner's mother, Sarah Guest Garner, was Irish.

The man to watch in Louisiana is Eugene Stanley, who will be the new attorney general. There should be an end to the "ridiculous and unnecessary quarrel" between CIO and AFL, which "arises from the personal ambitions of a small number of men at the top in both organizations."

A Bystander In Washington

BY JACK STINNETT

Washington—If you have an income-tax payment hangover, be of good cheer. You may get some of it back, with interest.

About 160,000 persons and companies got around $60,000,000 in taxes and interest back from the government last year ... and you may be one of the lucky ones this time.

If the government's got some of your money, it doesn't deserve, don't worry about it, either, because the Internal Revenue department is paying about the best interest in the country today—6 per cent. Where, in these parlous times, can you invest money with a company or bank as safe as the United States treasury and get a return like that? However, that story about Wall Streeters making intentional errors on their returns just to get their money invested with the government at 6 per cent (when U. S. treasury notes are only paying around 1 1/2 per cent, and long term bonds only 2 to 3 per cent) is all hogwash.

In the first place, any person who would be willing to risk not getting his back for a measly 6 per cent would be too dumb to have made enough money to pay an income tax. Tax refunds come out of tax hearings or the discoveries of Internal Revenue checkers. And when the checkers discover that something has to be paid back or hearings are scheduled on protested payments, you can bet at any odds you can get, that the tax return of the person involved is gone over with a fine-tooth comb. And the chances are pretty good that, under such scrutiny, Uncle Sam will discover the fellow didn't pay all the tax he should have.

In the second place, any bare-faced padding of an income tax return might have an amazing repercussion. It might land the padder in the jailhouse. Paying the government too much money is a crime if it's done with intent to take advantage of those generous interest rates. And if the gentlemen of Internal Revenue could prove it, the padder would do a penitentiary stretch.

If, however, you have any good reason to think that the Internal Revenue department has collected income tax from you unjustly, take a lesson from James J. Sweeney. Mr. Sweeney is a jovial Irishman from Boston. Mixed in with Mr. Sweeney's fighting Irish blood are some tenacious English, corpuses. The inspiration of Bunker Hill, as he puts it, has kept that blood racing at goodly speed ever since Mr. Sweeney can remember.

Several years ago, Mr. Sweeney came to Washington to become assistant to the attorney general. In 1938, the District of Columbia assessor (who is one of Uncle Sam's assessors, too, you know) took a look at the record, and assessed Mr. Sweeney 88 cents for the time he'd been here.

Mr. Sweeney went to the assessor's office and protested that he was a resident of Boston, not Washington. A subordinate there told Mr. Sweeney, "Persons who don't like our laws, don't have to stay here." That was a mistake. Perhaps he was misled by the smile on Mr. Sweeney's Irish map.

Not only did Mr. Sweeney burn the young man up with words that would have gotten through asbestos, but Mr. Sweeney went into action—legal action.

He got himself an attorney—"a lawyer who represents himself has a fool for a client," he says.

Mr. Sweeney Wins
The other day, Mr. Sweeney's two-year fight came to an end with a knockout. And it was not Mr. Sweeney on the floor. The United States Court of Appeals held that a government employee, residing in Washington, but "domiciled" elsewhere, is not subject to the district's levy on intangibles. That not only gave Mr. Sweeney his 88 cents back but set a precedent for about 23,000 other government employees.

Mr. Sweeney says that even if it had cost him the $1,500 or so that it would have a layman, it would have been worth every cent of it.

So, if you're mad at the Internal Revenue department and think you can prove they ain't done right by you, go to it. You may be another Mr. Sweeney—and it's Mr. Sweeney that make this country worth living in.

Just a Step Behind the News

By Dave Boone

What passed at the Brenner pass is still a mystery and the world continues to focus its glasses on men who make passes in passes. Both dictators returned in good condition so I guess the huddle didn't get out of control, a thing which is always apt to happen when Benito and Adolf make contact.

One yarn is that Summer Welles got caught so far out in no man's land by a barrage of Roosevelt's radio speeches that he couldn't get back to his original peace base, and Benito had to arrange the Brenner pass conference to rescue him. It at least gave Summer time to recover from what must have been a real dizzy spell.

Then there's the theory that Mussolini is as much scared as anybody by the Russian "bear that walks like a confidence man," and urged Hitler not to pull any blitzkriegs until every hope of peace has been exhausted. Benito's enthusiasm for Adolf cools off every time he looks up and sees Josef on the list of comrades.

I see this is Wild Life restoration week in the United States, and I'm wondering if maybe Europe ain't observing it, too. When Hitler and Mussolini get together for the usual photographs in those militant "I can lick the world" poses, it certainly boosts wild life restoration as much as anything I can think of.

I WONDER WHY FINLAND DIDN'T ACCEPT OUR AID?

Under the CAPITOL DOME

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—The calm confidence of the Wisconsin Dewey managers that their young man will sweep the state in the April primaries is wonderful to behold.

There is a tremendous popular enthusiasm for the young Manhattan prosecutor, they report, and it is not unlikely that he will carry his delegate candidates in every Wisconsin district, and thus furnish himself a psychological lead for the rest of the country since Wisconsin is one of the first testing grounds in the nation between Dewey and Vandenberg. And to anything thus far has been lacking in the campaign's momentum, the clincher will be his extensive personal tour through Wisconsin next week.

This correspondent visited the Milwaukee Dewey for President headquarters for Wisconsin this week. Host there is Senator Benny Gettelman, a veteran candidate and campaigner who had a hard time deciding in the last session of the legislature whether he was a Progressive or a Republican. Benny styles himself "chairman" of the delegate campaign.

MR. BACON

Chairman of the Wisconsin campaign is Edward Bacon, lean, aristocratic and well-to-do Milwaukee industrialist. Together they make an abundant corps of secretaries and unclassified personnel, and an old-time publicity man sent to Wisconsin from the national headquarters of the Dewey camp.

There are being made plans to accommodate an overflow crowd at the Milwaukee auditorium for Dewey's principal Wisconsin speech next week, and there are being prepared the "Vote for My Delegates"—Dewey literature which is being dispatched in huge bundles throughout the state. There is every evidence that the Wisconsin campaign, at least, is exceptionally well financed, and that Mr. Dewey wants tremendously to carry this commonwealth on April 2.

YOUNG CANDIDATE?

Watch for a boom in favor of Cornelius T. Young, Milwaukee state senator, for governor if the rebel faction of the state Democratic party is victorious this year.

Young is a candidate for Democratic convention delegate pledged to Roosevelt or the president's choice, and it has been established that he is "receptive" to a candidacy. A hold-over legislator, he would return to the senate in the event of a defeat.

GARNER CAMPAIGN

Although the Wisconsin boosters of the candidacy of Vice President Garner speak confidently of a victory due to the split in the Roosevelt forces in the state, their campaign efforts indicate that their confidence is not as deep as it appears in public.

The Garner campaign organization made up of paid employees, and the Garner expenditures in Wisconsin, thus far, are reliably reported to be higher than those of either of the New Deal factions.

BETTER PAY

About a quarter of Milwaukee county's present members of the legislature are running for county and municipal jobs in that city. Democratic, Republican and Progressive legislators are candidates for county supervisor and alderman posts, because, as one of them put it the other day, "it's less work for more pay."

Milwaukee county pays county board members $200 a month, and the city pays aldermen the same amount. A legislator gets $100 monthly, and is required to live and work in Madison for at least seven months of his term.

SYMPTOMATIC RELIEF

Perhaps some doctors still prescribe a saline laxative for patients coming down with cr—any of the common respiratory infections—who knows at that stage what it will prove to be?

Just between ourselves, and don't let it go any further, that preliminary purge, in my opinion, is based on these fundamental principles:

1. It has always been done, and hence always should be done. We must preserve the traditions.

2. It impresses the patient that the doctor is doing something for him. Just what I have never been able to ascertain.

3. It occupies the patient's mind sufficiently to keep him from wondering what really ails him anyway and from asking the doctor embarrassing questions.

4. It allows sufficient time for the illness to develop so that presently the doctor can pronounce it, meningitis, infantile paralysis, measles, influenza or whatever and everybody will be so concerned that no one remembers the first guess was "just a heavy cold."

Even if you call it cr from the outset, as I contend every citizen should—cr (krce) means common respiratory infection, of course you don't know yet which respiratory infection but you are honest about it and give every one fair warning that he comes within your conversational spray range at his own peril—even if you call it cr there is still no logical reason why you should take a laxative or cathartic of any kind. However, in practice, if I think the patient thinks he knows more than I know about that, I interpolate no serious objection to a dose of his favorite physic. It is not worth while to reason about such a thing with a sick man.

No, indeed, when a human being is careless enough to do as I say I would do if I had the cr, I do not stand around uttering cynicisms concerning the inefficacy of medicine.

Clapper Finds Little Hope For Early Peace in Europe

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—Well-informed persons here find little in the European situation that points to early peace. There is much talk about peace, and one can wish that there was as much prospect of getting it. More likely than peace is two or three more years of war. That is the fear of those who are fairly close to some of the realities.

Those realities are such that it makes one sad to think of them. It makes one sad to think that although this generation knows from ghastly experience something about the cost of war, it may be forced to pay the price again. Human affairs in Europe are so hopelessly tangled that there seems no escape. The belligerents seem doomed to fight it out, to hang on through the agony until the cost either in blood or in hunger forces a decision. After that, what? God only knows. Probably chaos. Possibly revolution. Certainly bankruptcy, exhaustion and a long and hard recuperation at best.

The fundamental reality is that Great Britain and Germany have decided the world is not big enough for them both. One or the other must go. One or the other must be a second-rate power and must remain so. Neither, of course, will voluntarily accept that status. In time one or the other will prove the weaker and will have the penalty inflicted. Either Germany will be reorganized so that she will no longer menace the rest of Europe, or else the power of the British fleet will be broken and the empire cut up in pieces for convenient serving among Germany and her associated powers.

Up to now Germany is the gainer out of the war and the pseudo-war that preceded it. Germany would be glad, no doubt, to make peace on the basis of the situation as it now stands.

The British government appears to be firmly set against any such acceptance of the status quo. To stop the war now by recognizing the acquisitions which Germany has made in the last few years—Austria, Czechoslovakia, Poland—would be, so the British and French think, nothing more than an armistice, a breathing spell, after which Hitler would resume his march.

Any Peace In Present Position Wouldn't Work

When Hitler went into Czechoslovakia after making his promise at Munich, Prime Minister Chamberlain lost all faith in him. Any peace now which left Hitler in his present position would leave both the British and French apprehensive. Both sides would continue their war preparations and the situation would be little different from the state of quiet war which has prevailed for the last six months.

After Under Secretary of State Welles returns in about 10 days from his mission to Europe, it is possible that Mr. Roosevelt may go through some peace motions. Whether it is probable, I don't know. The president's denunciation of the peace which Soviet Russia imposed on Finland is a good indication of how he would look upon a European peace which merely recognized Germany's recent conquests.

Hitler would hardly accept anything less than that. He is under no pressure. He still holds air superiority and probably will continue to hold it for another year. His back door is safer than ever now that Russia has ended the war with Finland. Britain is going to have a hard time making the blockade fully effective. We are shipping across the Pacific goods which the British say are filtering to Germany and nullifying her blockade.

Time is not necessarily with the British. Maybe they can't starve Germany. And it isn't certain that Britain is immune from being starved out by German submarine and air warfare. She badly wants more merchant tonnage now and is trying to get it here. In another year or two the allies will be wanting credit here. This war is so costly that it is a question whether the allies, even if they win it, will be able to cling to orthodox money economy. The chances are about as good that they will be forced by

She listed the following works of Dickens as his best: "David Copperfield," "Little Dorrit," "Tale of Two Cities" and "Bleak House." She said Dickens brought about reforms through his writing and listed the "Grapes of Wrath" as a modern example of a book written to bring about reform.

Keller Wants to Get Broughton to Debate at Madison

Appleton Democrat Challenges Sheboygan Leader in Discussion

Sheboygan — Charles E. Broughton, Democratic national committeeman, said today he had received no letter from Gustave J. Keller challenging him to a debate in advance of the Democratic delegate primary to be held April 2. Broughton and Keller head rival groups seeking election of delegates to the Democratic national convention.

"I have received no letter, and it is now 9:30 a. m.," Broughton said when asked for a statement. He added that he has but one address.

Special to Post-Crescent
Manitowish — Gustave J. Keller of Appleton, president of the Democratic Party Organization of Wisconsin, in a speech here last night attacked Charles E. Broughton, Wisconsin Democratic national committeeman, and challenged him to a public debate on "your alleged liberal leadership," and the alleged "liberal record of the Democratic party in Wisconsin."

Keller and Broughton are the leaders of rival pro-Roosevelt states of delegate candidates for the Democratic national convention next summer. The Keller slate is described as "Roosevelt delegates-State Conference Endorsed," while the Broughton candidates have adopted the label "Roosevelt-Farley delegates."

The Keller slate was filed first at the office of the secretary of state.

Gets a Date

The Appleton Democrat leader specified in his debate challenge, that it should be held next Tuesday evening in Madison, and that an acknowledgment is expected by next Saturday.

Keller charged that the Broughton-sponsored state Democratic conference at Wisconsin Rapids recently, which nominated the "Roosevelt-Farley" slate, was a "reunion of postmasters, federal employees, HOLC attorneys, federal patronage beneficiaries and their relatives," that non-New Dealers played leading parts in it, and that the chairman (Former Congressman James Hughes of De Pere) was hand-picked by Broughton before the conference was called to order.

Action in filing the rival slate, Keller charged, served to confuse the minds of the voters of Wisconsin "and can only result in splitting the liberal vote in the state and seriously endangering the election of the only candidates for delegates to the national Democratic convention solely and definitely pledged to President Roosevelt."

Keller said that Broughton's record "positively deprives you of the right to claim the support of Progressives and liberals."

Scolds Broughton

He added that the failure of the Broughton leadership of the Wisconsin Democrats after 1932 brought in to being a third party, the Progressives, and that the party failed to develop a constructive state program under Broughton.

He chided the Sheboygan man for the Democratic-Republican coalition "which resulted in the election of your commander-in-chief, Governor Heil and the devastating setback to the liberal progress in the state," and "your support of the reactionary Heil administration," which brought you the lucrative state public printing contract (Broughton is editor of the official state newspaper). He also criticized the important part taken by State Senator Harry Bolens, the major donor of the reactionary Republican legislature, in your Wisconsin Rapids reunion," and Broughton's acceptance from Heil of a commission as honorary colonel on the governor's staff.

MovieLand Its People and Products

By Jimmie Fidler

Loew's State Theater, New York — I hope Hollywood studio heads will have gumption enough to forego their usual bickering and get solidly behind the Motion Picture Exhibit to be staged this summer at San Francisco's World fair under the direction of Neil Hamilton and Herick Herick. If they do, the entire industry will reap a harvest of public interest and goodwill.

As outlined to me via long-distance last week, the exhibit can easily be the No. 1 attraction of this year's fair. Twenty thousand square feet of floor space, centrally located, will be converted into a typical studio set, furnished with cameras, cranes, and all of the other paraphernalia of picture production. On it, visitors will see, to all intents and purposes, a filmstrip being shot by a troupe of 40 people. Guest stars will be invited to be on hand each week.

It's important for this enterprise to be a complete success. Hollywood studios have been forced to close their gates against visitors. In so doing, they have lost a valuable contact with the fans whose admiration freely makes the whole industry tick. While it's true that the planned exhibit, no matter how perfectly staged, will be an illusion, it can do much to stimulate public interest in movie making. And if fair visitors, while seeing the problems of production, can also rub elbows with a few of their idols, the result is bound to be felt at the box office. Next to top-notch entertainment, Hollywood's greatest need is closer contact with its fans.

Personal observation: The average movie star Mrs. leads a double life—her own and her husband's. Add easy job holders: the Gene Markey's chauffeur—he always rides in the back seat while Gene or Hedy does the driving. Alan Hale's "all-over" laugh reminds me of that ancient jumble about Old King Cole. Unless the invitation specifically orders formal dress, it's an even bet that Merle Oberon will arrive in jodhpurs. . . . ing. Much to my relief it was Mary Ann Rogers. She was wrapped up in a heavy blue bathrobe over her green frock with a wool scarf knotted at her throat.

"I look a fright, I know," she smiled, "but it's so cold in our place. Do you mind if I come in for a little while, if you aren't going to bed, of course? It's pretty late," she added, then whirled around quickly as Richard MacDonald came up the stairway. She turned back to me with a breathless laugh. "I'll be with you in a minute," she said shrilly, "I forgot something."

And then she followed Richard down the hall. I could hear the murmur of their voices and I was pretty curious but when she came back in a minute or two she said nothing about it. I told her I was nothing to have company, and then we pulled our chairs up close to the fireplace.

Mary Ann leaned back in the chair, stretching her slim legs comfortably before her on the stool. She lit a cigarette, smoking thoughtfully. It was warm and pleasant in the room and the fire was drawing beautifully. I turned out all of the lights except the small one on the wall over the fireplace.

"Nervous As a Cat" "You know," she bent forward unexpectedly, her brown eyes on mine. "This is getting on my nerves. I've been sitting around all afternoon and evening and I'm as nervous as a cat, and worried. She lit a cigarette, smoking thoughtfully. It was warm and pleasant in the room and the fire was drawing beautifully. I turned out all of the lights except the small one on the wall over the fireplace.

"I can't make her stop. It isn't very cheerful," she added, with a short laugh. I thought of the paper. "The Sergeant isn't going to arrest her, is he?" The papers said it was a woman that was suspected."

It seemed to me that she started, but it may have been my imagination.

"What seems to be the matter with her," I asked.

Mary Ann wrinkled her forehead. "I don't know," she said, slowly, "except that she's terribly upset. I don't think the Sergeant has threatened to arrest her. It's just that her name was in the evening paper." She paused.

I got up and went over to the table for a pack of cigarettes. "All our names were in," I said.

Mary Ann nodded slowly. "I know, but when she saw hers she was wild."

I curled up in the chair again. "Well, it isn't the pleasantest thing to be mixed up in."

For a moment she was silent. "She's afraid of something," she said suddenly in a taut voice. "I don't know what it is. I can't figure her out at all."

"She was upstairs with Mr. Whitefield last night, you know." "Yes, she finally told me. But it isn't that. At least I think it's something else that's worrying her. She's huddled in a chair by the window and all she does is cry. She won't even talk." She shivered. "It makes me nervous. And she's as pale as a ghost."

Mary Ann's face was pale and drawn and the rouge on her round cheeks stood out in two bright spots.

"I took a lease on the apartment we're in now," she said unexpectedly, "and then I found I couldn't afford it alone when the dress shop needed me only half days. So I told Mr. Kimball and he said that a girl had been trying to get an apartment in the house. He suggested that she share mine. It was the only way out for me, so I told him to have her come to see me. It was Adrienne. I think she knew Harry Kincaid and wanted to live here on account of him. She's been here four months now and I still don't know anything about her." Then she added irrelevantly, "Your friend Mr. Kolff is very nice."

I supposed a smile, Dirck, I gathered, had made an impression. Before I could answer there was a terrific crash from the stairway. We jumped to our feet. I thought the whole house had collapsed.

Mary Ann gripped my hand and we stood motionless, too startled to move.

"Murder!" The voice was Mrs. Evans' from somewhere in the hall.

Somehow, to hear her shriek was reassuring. She was such an idiot and spent so much time screaming that I imagined nothing serious had happened. However, I opened the door with due caution and we crept out into the hall.

Continued tomorrow.

Catlin Says Low Water Endangers River Fish Life

Blames War Department For Permitting Low Levels in Lakes

Mark S. Catlin, Sr., Appleton's representative on the state conservation commission, today lashes at the war department for permitting water in Lake Winnebago, Poygan and Butte des Morts to drop to a level where, he said, the lives of thousands of fish in the rivers and marshes in the Wolf river area are endangered.

A serious situation confronts the natural spawning of fish in this area, Catlin said. "The spring thaw is helping some but there is not enough water in sight to bring the level of the lakes to normal because of the light snow this year."

Catlin visited the Rat river area Sunday and discovered thousands of fish, some dead and others gasping for air beneath the ice which in many cases rested on the mud of the river bottom. The same is true of many of the upper marshes, he said.

The commissioner notified the conservation department of the condition and technical men from Madison investigated yesterday. The war department is being notified of the situation, Catlin said.

"The water is the lowest it has been in years and the condition is ruining spawning grounds in the upper marshes," Catlin stated. "Fish are being smothered beneath the ice and do not have a chance to get out."

The department's technical men reported the oxygen content of the water is "very bad," Catlin said, and maintained that the low water situation can be corrected by the war department.

"Why the water level at Menasha is 11 feet below the crest of the Menasha dam and the level of the water in Lake Winnebago is three to four feet below normal," Catlin stated.

After its inauguration on March 30, the Nanking regime, according to a press statement, will proclaim the "liquidation" of the Chung-King government and declare itself the sole authority in China, dedicated to peace, national reconstruction and anti-communism.

Wang supporters today reiterated in the backroom here in Nanking, earlier statements that the Japanese would return properties now held by

In the case of enterprises where the Japanese have made large investments, such as railroads, mines and factories, the properties will be returned to the Chinese owners, the Wang spokesman said, and the Japanese investments treated as loans.

The Japanese military is staying in the backroom here in Nanking, leaving political activities, outwardly at least, to Wang Ching-wei.

40-Year-Old Concrete Block Supports 406 Tons in Test

A contest sponsored at the sixth annual Better Housing and Home Show, by the Gochnauer Concrete Products company has made an important contribution to knowledge of the relation between age of concrete and its strength.

The Appleton company exhibited a 40-year-old concrete block, made by the late M. K. Gochnauer, and asked people attending the show to guess the nearest to the load the block would hold before breaking.

Engineers, architects, builders and concrete men all pondered over the problem. Some thought there would be a slight decrease in strength, others that there would be an increase of from 25 to 50 per cent.

It is common knowledge that concrete increases in strength most rapidly the first seven days, but there is a gain over several years. This has been proven in laboratories of the Portland Cement association.

The experts pondered and figured and submitted their estimates. Figures received in the contest (and more than 500 people tried their hand) ranged from a few hundred to 1,000,000 pounds.

Two Are Tied

I took a youth, Vernon Kramer, 1236 W. Second street, a Lawrence college student, and a woman, Mrs. A. Pehle, 827 N. Division street, to hear the experts. They both guessed 50,000 pounds.

The block was one of the first made in the United States and was made on a cumbersome machine. Up to that day 40 years ago, basement walls were laid up of quarried limestone. Some of these stones were extremely heavy and this concrete block, which was 10 inches wide and 32 inches long by nine inches, was an advantage to the stone masons of that day.

The concrete block made at the Gochnauer plant was first used in basement walls and Adam Limpert, 927 N. Richmond street, a mason contractor still active, laid up the first foundation.

The block which was used in the Better Housing and Home Show contest was made of bank run sand from Apple Creek and the cement was some of the first produced in the United States. The concrete was mixed and tamped into a block machine by hand. High production was about 100 blocks a day.

Placed In New Building

This particular block was used in building a portion of the Gochnauer plant when it was located on a lake near the present Appleton Coated Paper company. When the plant was moved across Meade street to its present site in 1900, the block was torn down and rebuilt in the new location.

Last year a door opening was cut in the plant and some of the old blocks put in the scrap pile. It was one of these blocks used in the test. The Portland Cement association offered to test the 40-year-old block to determine its strength. It was first taken to a Milwaukee laboratory, where a 210,000-pound capacity machine couldn't make a dent in it. The block was halved and the machine still couldn't break it.

The halves were then taken to Madison where a university laboratory has a 600,000-pound machine. Here the two halves were tested with a total load. They finally broke under a load of 813,000 pounds or 406 tons.

In other words, it could support eight carloads of sand, or blocks of a like nature and weight could be piled three-quarters of a mile high before the block would give way.

This is said to be the first time proof has been established that concrete continues to improve in strength through many years. It is estimated that the block was from three to four times stronger than when a year old.

Cloudy Tomorrow, Weatherman Says

Snow Falls During Night; Thermometer at 36 Above Today

March continued its routine of snow by dark and sun by daylight as spring triumphed over winter today.

Snow sprinkled roof tops again this morning, but sunshine, intermittently blocked out by clouds, soon melted the fresh layer.

Increasing cloudiness tomorrow, with snow probable in the south portion and "no decided change in temperature," is the forecast issued today by the Milwaukee weather bureau.

At noon today the thermometer atop the Post-Crescent building registered 36 degrees. For the 24-hour period ended at 9 o'clock this morning, the highest mark in the city was 38, at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and the lowest 22 at 6 o'clock this morning, according to the Wisconsin Michigan Power company plant.

Miami, with 84, and Sault St. Marie, Mich., with 5 above, stood at the top and bottom of the nation's weather chart yesterday.

Milwaukee Interested in Race For Mayor, but Doesn't Concede Much Chance to Hoan Opponent

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Correspondent
Milwaukee—It's David versus Goliath in the mayoralty campaign in Wisconsin's largest city, and the betting favors Goliath.

A 32 year old novice who has made a phenomenal campaign in his first fling at an elective office is the political hero of the city, but expert observers predict that Mayor Daniel Webster Hoan, who at 59 has seen 30 years of service in the city government, will be given a seventh four year term in city hall by the city's 200,000 voters in April.

Yet old and wise heads are shaking as the metropolis mulls over in admiring terms the finesse and the energy with which Hoan's extraordinary opponent, handsome Carl Zeidler, has been pushing the contest thus far.

Spearhead of a self-organized political youth movement in municipal affairs, Zeidler has been ridiculed as the "Apollo of Milwaukee politics." But he surprised everybody except himself by being nominated last week, and now he looks confidently ahead to ousting the veteran of the average Milwaukee politician.

Zeidler is a brother of the Rev. C. H. Zeidler pastor of the Trinity English Lutheran church of Appleton.

The Milwaukee community when the primary canvass began several months ago calculated that peppery Dan Hoan's major threat was represented in the campaign of Earl D. Lillydahl, who seemed to have the backing of the anti-Socialist business and industrial elements, who claimed that he had such backing, and who announced that "50,000 people can't be wrong," a reference to the claim that petitions containing 50,000 names brought him into the contest.

"Experts" Amazed

But the primary election clerks could find only 18,000 Lillydahl voters after the ballots were counted. The amazement of the town, including the red-faced "experts," a boyish, blonde curly-haired handsome young man from the city attorney's office who had never figured in politics before got over 50,000 votes and the right to stand against the tempestuous, famous Milwaukee mayor at the general municipal election.

The burghers were surprised, they said, and the experts were confounded, they explained in haste, because Zeidler was not a politician. He had never run for office. He had not been active in party work. He had not figured in previous municipal campaigns, any more than other young men of his age.

The authors of such explanations, however, had not watched this youth closely.

The fact is that Zeidler is a politician, and an exceptionally skillful one. He has been campaigning for mayor for five years, deliberately and artfully. Three and a half years ago he entered the city attorney's office. But for fully a year before that he had been following his plan to meet every voter in the city, or as many of them as is possible for one man to meet. And he continued that ambition from his vantage post in city hall.

Hoan Isn't Worried

Hoan supporters in Milwaukee don't seem to be worried. But at the same time they are missing no chances. Some of Zeidler's campaign tactics are new, such as the public debate challenge which he flung at the mayor last week. Never drinking during the period he would have to spend six months in the county detention camp.

LaFollette Would Check FDR's Trade Treaty Activities

Washington—U. S. Senator LaFollette (Prog-Wis.) said yesterday he would vote against extension of the power to negotiate reciprocal trade agreements unless future checks against presidential authority over them were established.

"Foreign trade developments of the past week," the senator said in a statement, "give further emphasis to the fact that the war situation abroad has completely changed the basic considerations involved in the extension of the trade agreements program."

Raymond Jameson Addresses Rotary On Library Work

Visiting Lecturer at College Describes Congressional System

A library that contains five million books and 11 million maps and that adds from 200,000 to 225,000 items a year was described yesterday before the Appleton Rotary club at its noon meeting in the Conway hotel.

The speaker was Raymond Jameson, consultant in comparative literature at the library of congress in Washington, D. C. Mr. Jameson, who has held professorships at the universities of Wisconsin and Chicago and for 13 years taught in Chicago, is a visiting lecturer on the Lawrence college campus this week.

Pointing out that the "technique of library service has developed so rapidly that many scholars do not know what is available," Jameson said that it is his job to explain to them the sources of information.

The library of congress, in addition to providing scholars with material or showing them where it can be found, is constantly studying the "currents of research," Jameson said, so it can be prepared to meet new demands.

The library is the "largest serviceable, working library in the world," Jameson said, and in many fields has the most valuable collections known. He said that the library seldom buys rare books unless they are "unique sources of information" and that volumes of this type which the institution owns are gifts, for the most part.

Cites Policies

The library, Jameson stated, frequently will not accept gifts of books or papers if it believes they have a more appropriate place. As an example of this policy, he cited the case of a collection of Viennese folklore or "funny stories" which was given to the library. The library's administration board sent the gift to the Cleveland public library, which has the most complete set of volumes on American humor.

Micro-filming, the process of transposing manuscript material to 35 millimeter film, was described by Jameson as one of the outstanding developments in recent years.

Through this method, it is possible to place two pages of material on a film that costs only two cents.

He said that when a person wants to find material on a certain subject, he should go first to his local library. If it is not available there, the library of congress through its union catalog, can locate it.

The union catalog Jameson said contains 14 million entries covering the material in 700 American libraries.

Political Sentiment in Pennsylvania Found Evenly Divided in Public Survey

BY DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion Princeton, N. J.—Political sentiment in Pennsylvania, a state which went Democratic in 1936 but elected a Republican state administration two years ago, is almost evenly divided between the two parties today in state-wide surveys by the American Institute of Public Opinion.

The trend toward the Democrats began with the outbreak of war in Europe, but the division of strength between the Republicans and Democrats is sufficiently close at this time to indicate that the Keystone State, with its 36 electoral votes, is likely to be one of the chief battlegrounds in the presidential campaign this year.

Up to 1934 when Governor Earle and Senator Guffey were elected, the state had a virtually unbroken tradition of Republicanism, having gone Republican in every presidential election but one since 1864. President Roosevelt carried Pennsylvania with 58 per cent of the major party vote in 1936, but a much smaller majority of the state's voters now say they would like to see the Democrats win again in 1940. The trend is indicated in replies to the question:

"Which party would you like to see win the Presidential election this year?"

Pennsylvania Voters Today

Want Democrats to Win 51%
Want Republicans to Win 49%

Despite the downward trend since 1936, Democrats can take comfort in the fact that their party is more popular in the state today than it was in a previous Institute survey last July. At that time a majority said they wanted the Republicans to win.

Pennsylvania Voters Last July

Want Democrats to Win 46%
Want Republicans to Win 54%

The pro-Democratic trend since the outbreak of war, Institute studies show, has been nation-wide. As compared to a year ago, the popularity of the Democratic party throughout the nation has increased 6 percentage points in these studies.

Sentiment Is Divided

While today's results indicate the Democratic party has a slight edge in Pennsylvania a third term for Roosevelt is not favored by the voters of this state.

Approximately one-fourth of the Pennsylvania Democrats who voted for Roosevelt in 1936 are against him for a third term, the study shows. Among Republicans there is nearly unanimous opposition to a third term. Sentiment for the state as a whole is as follows:

Would Vote for Roosevelt 49%
Would Vote Against 51%

By parties the division is as follows:

Would Vote For Would Vote Against

3rd Term Against

1936 Roosevelt 74% 26%
1936 Landon 6 94
All Others 60 40

In 1936, 2,350,788 voters cast their ballots for Roosevelt in the state.
Applying the survey percentages to this figure indicates that approxi-

tions, to 47 per cent for the Democrats. A Republican governor was elected with 54 per cent.

1939—Institute survey in July showed Democratic strength at 46 per cent for Republicans.

Today—Sentiment virtually evenly divided, with 51 per cent of voters favoring a Democratic victory in the presidential election, 49 per cent a Republican victory.

Referendum Will Determine Status Of City Assessor

Proposal for Full-Time Office Will Go to Voters in April

Menasha—Voters of Menasha will determine whether a full-time assessor will replace the present system of part-time assessors at the April 2 election as the result of a petition presented to the Menasha council Tuesday night.

Jan. 18 the council adopted an amendment to the charter, ordinance abolishing the old system under which two assessors are elected to part-time jobs. The proposed amendment, which would have taken effect except for the petition, calls for a full-time assessor appointed by the council.

Over 400 signatures were presented in the petition and City Clerk Walter J. Dougherty certified that the number was sufficient to require a referendum. Alderman Scanlon moved that the petition be accepted.

Henry Vandeyacht 4424 Second street, was appointed to the first ward election board to succeed Ray J. Keefe who is a candidate for election at the spring election.

On recommendation of Alderman William Karow, the city office will be open Thursday night as well as Saturday afternoon for the convenience of those citizens who cannot register during the regular office hours. Saturday is the last day for registration before the April 2 election.

1-Way Street

In an attempt to solve the traffic problem on Second street, the council adopted an amendment to the traffic ordinance making the 500 block of Second street a 1-way thoroughfare. Traffic will be permitted only from Racine street to Appleton street and all traffic in a westerly direction in that block on Second street will be prohibited.

The ordinance also forbids a left turn off Second street onto Appleton street when traveling east on Second street. Alderman Zeininger pointed out that the measure is intended only as a trial for a month to see if it will remedy crowded traffic conditions during services at St. Mary's church. He said that if it is successful it will be much less expensive than cutting back the terrace would be.

Because of a traffic accident last week, Alderman Philip Michalkiewicz again requested stop signs on streets leading into Appleton street and a four-way stop at Appleton and Seventh streets. He cited the number of accidents and near-accidents as well as the number of school children who travel those streets.

The matter was left to the street committee at a recent meeting and John R. Scanlon, chairman of the committee, reported that signs will be installed at the most dangerous intersections.

Board Hearing

The board of public works will meet at 7 o'clock April 4 to hear objections to the installation of curb and gutter on Milwaukee street from Seventh street south to the railroad tracks. A petition requesting the installation was presented to the council last night.

A petition for a street light at Fox and Lawson streets were referred to the water and light commission, with power to act. Both the aldermen agreed that a street light is necessary. The mayor and city attorney were instructed to investigate the ownership of land on East Fourth street off Konekame street so that the council can grant a request for sewer and water.

A request from the industrial commission for a deposit of $2,015.01 for the city's unemployment reserve fund was referred to the finance committee with power to act. Compensation insurance, which expires April 24, was referred to the finance committee and committee of the whole with instructions to report at the next regular meeting.

Alderman Walter O'Brien asked the city engineer to report on a remedy for the nuisance caused by the sewer system on Paris street. O'Brien reported that a lift pump in the sewer stopped Saturday night and a manhole flooded with sewerage as a result. He declared it was the third time that it had flooded and suggested that the pump be moved to the east end of Paris street and be placed above the ground in order to operate efficiently.

Edward Zeininger objected because, he said, the Soo line and St. Paul line railroads sometimes violate the 5-minute restriction in blocking traffic on River street at the Lush street crossing. He pointed out the dangers of a serious accident or a fire and asked the attorney to write the two railroads to request their cooperation.

On recommendation of the city attorney the claims of Tri-City Oil company, Henry Hahn, and Al Grestler for tax refunds based on double assessments were granted. The attorney advised further investigation of the complaint of the United Paper corporation. He said the complaint might be because of over-valuation or it might be based on an error in the description.

The Twin Cities office of the Appleton Post-Crescent for its editorial, circulation and display advertising departments is located at 510 N. Commercial street, and the telephone number is 4100. News items, copy or orders for display advertising and orders for subscriptions may be left at the office or telephoned. Orders for classified advertising should be placed by telephoning 543 in Appleton, and the cost of the telephone call will be rebated. The Twin Cities office closes at 7 o'clock in the evening.

Colbert Charges Lack of Concern About Government

Typical American Shows Little Interest in U. S. Affairs, Club Told

Neenah—No other government in the world gives the people the services which our government does and no government receives as little interest by the typical American. Politicians and party politics are ridiculed and discussed sometimes in nameology which is unprintable. What is wrong with them is ourselves. We have resigned as citizens. We know more about the League of Nations and foreign affairs than we do about our local and county governments. These were a few of the charges made by E. J. Colbert, University of Wisconsin professor and founder of the Citizenship Education plan, in a talk about the plan before the Woman's Tuesday Club yesterday afternoon in the Neenah Public library club rooms.

"Most of us are completely unaware of the tremendous potentialities in the democratic process because we are not thinking because we have been drifting," Prof. Colbert said.

Education Is Answer

"I believe the citizenship education plan for young voters is the answer to the indifference toward American democracy, because it is so practical," continued the speaker. "Communism and fascism or any other 'isms' cannot stand comparison with democracy."

The speaker who has been teaching in Wisconsin for 19 years, stated that because of constant and persistent bombardments by thinking people for the answer to 'isms' in this country, which "came to me as a direct and basic challenge" he conceived a plan whereby democracy could be made so vivid so clear and so attractive that other 'isms' would fade in comparison.

"Only 70 per cent of the electorate cast ballots in the national election, less than 60 per cent cast ballots in the state and only 30 per cent cast ballots in the local elections. That is an upside down procedure; that is not the way the United States developed. For years this country was skeptical of a strong central government. We would never have had a revolutionary war if it had not been that our forefathers were opposed to strong centralized government."

"Each year throughout the United States some two and a half million young men and women native sons and daughters reach their twenty-first birthday anniversaries. Their status has been changed from recipients to partners in the greatest cooperative enterprise on earth. What happens? Nothing."

Real Opportunity

"It seemed to me that herein was a real opportunity to vitalize and strengthen the very foundations of democracy. That is how the citizenship education program was begun but if I had known how much interest such a program would arouse throughout the state and nation and even in foreign countries I doubt if I would have had the courage."

Professor Colbert continued in his discussion to explain how the Manitowish Citizenship day plan began and how it was developed, the citizenship day itself, the county election, declaring that he was "proud" of the achievements of his 1939 class in Manitowish county "beyond any class I ever had in my 26 years of teaching." The speaker told of the interest which the plan aroused, of the letters asking for information received from CCC camps, from Harvard university from other colleges from other countries, England, Austria, New Zealand, The

Menasha Pastor Will Address Rotary Club

Buxton Kettering Is Neenah Cage Captain

Neenah—Buxton Kettering, Coach Ole Jorgensen's ace forward, has been elected captain of the Neenah High school 1940-41 basketball squad by his teammates, it was announced today by the coach.

The lefthanded cager has played as a regular forward for two years on the Rocket quintet, and he has been a mainstay in scoring and defense on Neenah's two Northeastern Wisconsin conference championship teams, in a district, two regional and two state tournaments.

The speaker outlined the program in Winnebago county and particularly Neenah. He said that the Neenah program was well set up largely through the interest and contributions of S. F. Shattuck. The Menasha program too is well set up but the Menasha young people shut out the elders this year because they thought they could discuss things more openly.

Tells of Convention

Professor Colbert told the club about the Winnebago County convention of new voters which would be held soon. Nomination papers for the various offices, chairman, vice chairman, secretary and treasurer, are circulating and six candidates have filed for the office of chairman.

Induction of foreign born will be held at the same time as the citizenship day. The first year is always the hardest, Professor Colbert pointed out, but one is always amazed at the response. At times it is discouraging because so few new voters come to the meetings but that is because they have been so used to taking everything and giving nothing.

"I do not believe the success of the program can be measured before five years but already there are some very interesting results." Open forum discussion followed.

Jorgensen Lauds Basketball Team At Lions Luncheon

Says He's More Than Satisfied With Showing In Tournament

Neenah — Coach Ole Jorgensen told Neenah Lions as the club entertained his championship Neenah High school basketball squad at a noon luncheon Tuesday at the Valley Inn that he was more than satisfied with the team's showing in the state tournament at Madison.

The basketball team, which won a third share of the championship in the Northeastern Wisconsin conference with New London and Shawano, topped the regional tournament title at Menasha and then was eliminated in a semifinal match by Marshfield in the state tournament.

Coach Jorgensen said that in the tournament the team got as much and probably more than it deserved, and for a green, inexperienced quintet, they won more games in the tournament and throughout the season than was expected of them.

"We play in a tough conference," the coach stated, "and was a typical nip and tuck battle and many spectators declared it was the best game in the first round. The second game against Superior East was a nightmar, but after trailing 20 to 7, the boys woke up during the second half and won the game, holding a tough team to three points. I didn't think that it could be done," the coach said.

Trying too hard

Jorgensen took exception to the publicity on the alleged bad pass during the last four seconds of the Marshfield game. That pass didn't lose the ball game for us. When you analyze a basketball game, you figure the percentage of baskets to shots. The average winning team makes between 25 and 30 per cent of its shots. During the first half of the Marshfield game, Neenah took 31 shots and made five, and although the score was 12-all at the half, Neenah should have lead by 12 points if the boys had been butting away. During the second half, Neenah made only two baskets in 33 shots. Neenah's percentage for the game was 11, seven baskets in 64 shots.

If Neenah had been playing according to form, that pass or several others wouldn't have mattered, and the reason they weren't playing according to form was that the boys were trying too hard for a victory.

The coach said that Marshfield, which didn't look good enough to beat any team, put up a tough fight, and the Marshfield players were a determined crew of cagers.

Members of the team who were honored at the luncheon were Captain Harland Hesselman, Ed Winkelman and Tom Christofferson, seniors; Captain-elect Buxton Kettering, Julius Hertzfeldt, Richard Miller and Douglas Hauke, juniors, and Daniel Kuehl, and James Gottfried, sophomores, and Donald Peterson, manager.

Emil Larsen, route 1, Larsen, has been admitted to Thea Clark hospital for treatment.

Menasha Council Rejects Bids on Purchase of Truck

Votes to Readvertise After Second Deadline on New Pump

Menasha—The Menasha council debated purchase of a fire truck for an hour and a half Tuesday night before finally deciding to reject all bids. New specifications will be prepared by the fire committee, Mayor W. H. Jensen and City Attorney Edward C. McKenzie. The new specifications will be adopted at an adjourned meeting at 6 o'clock Thursday night and the council will vote to advertise for bids once more, returnable April 4.

Two weeks ago the council divided five and five on a motion to purchase a fire truck from the lowest bidder, Clintonville Four-Wheel Drive corporation and even divided by the same vote on a motion to adjourn. Tuesday night Alderman John Scanlon once more introduced a motion to purchase from the lowest bidder and the vote was the same except that Alderman Reuben Tuchscherer was absent, leaving the vote 5 to 4.

Alderman Edward Zeininger, William Karrow, John Scanlon, Philip Michalkiewicz, and Walter O'Brien voted for the motion and Alderman Paul Laemmrich, M. F. Crowley, John Pinkerton, and William DeBruin voted against it. City Attorney Edward C. McKenzie ruled that majority vote of all members of the council was necessary to purchase and an hour of discussion followed before the bids finally were rejected.

Charges Bribe Attempt

Mayor W. J. Jensen declared that an attempt had been made to bribe an alderman and said, "The odor is terrible." He quoted one salesman as saying that he had five solid votes and that no one could touch them.

The mayor declared that a new truck is needed to protect the manufacturers, as the old truck is still good enough for the residential district. He threatened to call in the local manufacturers to force the purchase of a new truck and also threatened to call on Neenah to help Menasha out in case of a fire.

Alderman Crowley agreed that the city does need a truck. "No one ever touched me or bribed me," Crowley asserted and added, "I believe in buying the equipment that will serve the city best. Every man has a right to his own opinion and I voted 'no' because I believe in purchasing from a man who specializes in fire apparatus."

Scanlon pointed out that he had offered a compromise on the second or third low bidder but no one had accepted two weeks ago. The mayor asked the aldermen to prove to him in writing that the Clintonville truck does not meet specifications and declared that the LaFrance pumper will not meet specifications. He threatened to veto any purchase of the LaFrance truck and said that he would watch the taxpayer's money.

"Junker," not "Drunkard"

"I know you aldermen are honest," the mayor said "but I don't like to have businessmen come to me and quote salesmen as saying they have five solid votes." DeBruin said he figured the city was getting the most for its money if it purchased the LaFrance. The large audience, at the council session cut a chuckle when the mayor commented on the "junker" trip to Chicago and DeBruin understood him to say "drunkard trip."

Alderman Pinkerton declared that Clintonville has made only six pumps in the last 15 years and the mayor and Pinkerton continued the discussion for the next 15 minutes. Scanlon once more asked for conciliation and suggested that the council pull together, not against each other.

The mayor finally suggested three alternatives, let the town burn or operation this morning at Thea, down, let the contract to the lowest bidder.

bidder, or reject all bids. "Tell me where Clintonville doesn't meet specifications and I'll go to the next lowest bidder," Scanlon offered. A few minutes later Scanlon said, "I'm sick and tired of all this arguing. I move we reject the bids." Philip Michalkiewicz seconded the motion.

Crowley declared that he was opposed to re-advertising. He suggested that it was the duty of every alderman to inspect every truck bid on and then to start eliminating. He suggested that that procedure could still be used. He pointed out that he based his objection to the Clintonville truck on the pump at the last meeting.

"Why not let the new council decide?" queried Edward Zeininger. "They probably will have more gumption."

The motion to reject all bids and return the certified checks was carried 5 to 4. Laemmrich, Zeininger, Crowley, and DeBruin voted against rejecting the bids.

Karrow introduced a motion requesting the fire committee, mayor, and attorney to prepare new specifications on a 1,000 gallon pumper by Thursday night. Bids are to be quoted in terms of part payment of $4,000 or cash. "All the specifications are there now except that the wrong name is on the bottom," Zeininger commented. The motion passed with only Zeininger voting against it. The council then adjourned to 6 o'clock Thursday night.

All Milk Plants in County Making Tests Under Dairy Program

All milk plants in Outagamie county are making sediment and methylene blue tests under the county quality dairy program. County Agent J. F. Magnus said today in reports continued progress with the program. One cheesemaker in the county who recently refused to cooperate with the program was brought into municipal court on complaint of a state inspector that he was making cheese from insanitary milk. The cheesemaker was put under bond for six months, and now is cooperating with the program, Magnus said. Outagamie county was the first in the state to adopt the quality program which was given an enthusiastic reception by producers and milk plant operators. Other counties in the state now are adopting the program.

DAIRY ADVERTISING FUND GROWS

Typifying the interest shown in the drive of the Wisconsin Dairy Industries association for voluntary funds to promote dairy products are Bryce Landt, left, Wisconsin Dells, and August Kanning, Ladysmith, president and vice president, respectively, of the association, as they study this progress indicator of the W.D.I.A. Each number on the thermometer represents millions of pounds of butterfat. The mercury line shows that by March 8 producers of 130 million pounds of butterfat annually had joined the W.D.I.A., although Kanning thought that the unreported signups would bring the figure up to the level which he is indicating. While the May 1 sign-up goal will be an annual production of at least 200 million pounds of butterfat, Landt is indicating that the ultimate goal will be the signing of the 400 million pounds of butterfat produced annually in Wisconsin.

Farmers May Get Lime or Marl Under Grant-of-Aid Program

Farmers in Outagamie county, who participate in the 1940 Agricultural Conservation program, may get lime, marl or sludge without paying out any cash. They also may get 45 per cent superphosphate upon payment of a deposit of $3 per ton. These materials are provided in Outagamie county under the grants-of-aid program. In the case of lime, or other lime material, the entire cost of the material at the quarry or delivered to the farm is financed by the Agricultural Adjustment administration, and the cost is deducted from the agricultural conservation payment earned in 1940. Where superphosphate is obtained as a grant-of-aid the balance of the cost, $30 per ton ($38 per ton total), is deducted from the payments made under the conservation program. Officials of the Agricultural Conservation association say that the lime may be applied to any land on the farm, the only restriction being that it less than two tons are applied per acre that a soil test showing that less than two tons per acre are needed, is provided.

Hackbarth, William Popp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Popp, Alvin Koffernus, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Koffernus, and Cyril Schwalenberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schwalenberg. Eugene Cole, commercial teacher and band director at the high school left Friday evening for Madison to spend the weekend with his wife who is seriously ill at St. Mary's hospital of that city. He returned home Sunday evening. Mrs. George Wolf entertained at a 6 o'clock dinner Sunday evening for Mr. and Mrs. John Huntz and Mrs. Minnie Greve of Chilton. The Hilbert Beauty Parlor, which was operated by Miss Fidelia Loehr of St. John and was located in the Wisconsin hotel, was discontinued Monday.

Farm Bankruptcies Fewer During 1939

Report Decrease of 10 Cases in State From Preceding Year

Bankruptcies of Wisconsin farmers last year were below the number in 1938, according to a crop reporting service bulletin received by J. F. Magnus, Outagamie county agricultural agent. For the entire nation, farm bankruptcies in 1939 were the smallest in 18 years. The 1939 reports of farmer bankruptcies show 57 for that fiscal year, which is a decrease of 10 cases compared with the bankruptcies in 1938. There was a total of 977 bankruptcies in the state last year. Of this number only 58 per cent were among farmers. In 1938 there were 1,401 bankruptcies of which 48 per cent were among farmers. Bankruptcies among farmers in the United States were 21 per cent below the number in 1938. The current figure for bankruptcies among farmers is the lowest reported since 1921, and it is 82 per cent below the number in 1925 when a peak was reached, according to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. More than half of all the bankruptcies among farmers last year were in the middle Atlantic and north central states. For the nation as a whole, there were 1,422 cases of farmer bankruptcies last year compared with 1,799 reported for the 1938 fiscal year. The decrease in farmer bankruptcies is a continuation of a decline that has been apparent since 1933 when 5,917 cases were reported. With the present 1,422 cases there has been a decrease of 76 per cent in the number of bankruptcies among farmers since 1933.

Johnson Says Any Fair Probe Would Strengthen F.B.I. Head

Editor's Note: During Westbrook Pegler's vacation, the daily column by Hugh S. Johnson will be substituted in the Post-Crescent.

BY HUGH S. JOHNSON
Washington, D. C.—Attorney General Jackson is standing loyally by his associate, chief G-man Hoover. He issued an order the effect of which is to prevent wire tapping in criminal cases by any federal bureau. In doing so he made it clear that Mr. Hoover opposed and forbade wire tapping in FBI, until ordered by a former attorney general to use that method under close personal supervision in extreme cases.

Yet, in view of the tow-row kicked up by Senator Norris' indictment of F.B.I., and the proposed senate resolution for an investigation of wire tapping, this order may look like a retirement under fire from an evil practice in F.B.I., in the very obvious "smear Hoover" campaign that is going on. Neither in Senator Norris' letter nor in the senate resolution, was there any intimation whatever of any complaint by anybody of any F.B.I. invasion of civil rights by tapping wires. On the contrary, Senator Green has denied that the senate resolution intimates any such thing and added: "As a matter of fact, this investigation into wire-tapping practice was partly the result of evidence uncovered by F.B.I. in my state."

Mr. Hoover has continuously protested and prevented wire-tapping. It is well known throughout F.B.I. that it is worth any agent's job to tap a wire in any case not specifically authorized by the chief himself and that has never been done except where a human life was at stake or at the climax of the cleanup of some Dillinger-like bandit or racketeering gang.

That doesn't mean that plenty of wires have not been tapped by other departments of federal government, by state and local police and in state political rows such as the one hinted by Senator Green in Rhode Island. Another case occurred in California in the bitter battle between the governor and the speaker of the California house. These and other instances and not any action of F.B.I., are responsible for the proposed senate action. Hoover In The Clear On All Insinuations

Yet, one of the catch phrases in the push to get Hoover is "He has so much on so many prominent politicians that they had better get him before he gets them." This is good enough to make a good many big shots squirm and not suffer at the thought of J. Edgar walking the plank. It is like the old saying that you can worry all men and drive some to flight by a simple telegram saying "Better lie low. All is discovered."

F. B. I. doesn't keep records on anybody but criminals, doesn't investigate anybody except on general or special orders and has never used tapping or wire tapping methods on either congressmen or other public officials.

During the World war one very high official secreted a microphone in another's office—and got into Woodrow Wilson's doghouse almost to the point of dismissal. During prohibition when all civil rights were violated by federal enforcement officers, wire-tapping was practiced and upheld by the courts. Mr. Ickes is said to have had his DRAW a big, heavy line around Tuesday, May 7, on your calendar—that's the day selected for the Appleton Post-Crescent's fourth annual Fishermen's Party. And the place again will be the Rio theater.

In a way there isn't need to go further with a discussion of the party and what it offers because there will be hundreds of inquiries about tickets as soon as this story hits the street. As a matter of fact we've already had persons ask that tickets be held for them and we haven't dared inquire at some of the sporting goods stores which annually handle the ducks.

It may be only a few days before Easter but while friend wife thinks of Easter finery friend husband is looking over his tackle box and thinking about what he'll need in the way of new equipment. Some of the boys are gathering in John's or Pete's basements and going over flies, considering this one against that one and telling about the big ones which got away last year.

Yes, sir, the coal bill may not show it but spring is just around the corner and with spring comes fishing and who cares about the troubles in Europe.

The date is a trifle later than in past years but it is closer to the opening day of the fishing season—May 15—and for that reason the enthusiasm should be greater and will carry over a longer period of time. And, after all, that's what we are interested in—stirring up interest in the fishing season.

Rio Seats 1,900 Persons
The Rio theater again has been selected because it offers so much in the way of convenience for the 1,900 persons who will attend the party and because it has the facilities for staging a big show. Last year's party proved all that.

There'll again be an entertainment program worthy the price of admission. It hasn't been completed but probably will feature a couple reels of motion pictures to put the folks in the correct mood, a brief talk by someone closely connected with fishing and comedy or musical numbers that will satisfy everyone.

And there'll be prizes—all kinds of them, but definitely of the type which appeal to fishermen and which they and persons interested in the out of doors can use.

Last year the prize list totaled 170 awards ranging from the sportswear outdoor water and the family size row boat down to a can of insect spray for the pesky bugs that sometimes mar a weekend's fishing. Every prize was valued at $1 or more. No other party north of Milwaukee could compare with the 1st of awards. And that isn't boasting because we made almost every party in the state.

Driver He Gave Away
May Beat Byron Nelson

Pinchurst, N. C.—The driver Byron Nelson thought wasn't good enough may cost him the North-South open golf title he won in 1939.

Two brand new, specially-made drivers arrived here for Nelson the other day. The United States open champion tried them out, kept the one he liked, and made his fellow Texan, Ben Hogan, a present of the other.

Armed with this new weapon, Hogan shot a 66 that put him three strokes up on the field as they went into the second 18 holes of the 38th annual tournament today. He called it one of the most satisfactory rounds he's ever had, and he was full of praise for his new war club. Said he:

"This new driver Nelson gave me—heck, I never hit a shot like that before. Clothesline drives, every one of them. And not a hook in the lot."

Arturo Godoy Ranked No. 1
Challenger for Joe's Title

MILWAUKEE.—(P)—Arturo Godoy, Chile's "forgotten man" who came out of obscurity to go 15 rounds with heavyweight champion Joe Louis, today replaced Tony Galento as the National Boxing Association's choice as No. 1 contender for the brown bomber's title.

Fred J. Saddy, of Milwaukee, chairman of the NBA's placement rating committee, placed Godoy's performance at the top of his review for the past quarter, ahead of Henry Armstrong's knockout victory over Pedro Montañez and Armstrong's draw with Ceferna Garcia.

El Galento dropped to second place among the heavyweight contenders, followed in order by Bob Pastor, Lou Nova, Tommy Farr and Max Baer. The committee placed Johnny Paycheck, Louis' next foe, in eighth place.

The committee placed its quarterly list of champions—unchanged since December—with a blunt warning to Joey Archibald, featherweight ruler, that unless he signs for a bout with Pete Scalzo by March 28, the NBA will relieve him of his title. Scalzo is No. 1 contender.

PRESIDENT OF STATE BOWLERS

Neenah — A. A. Hennig, above, cashier of the First National bank, Neenah, who this week was elected president of the Wisconsin State Bowling association, is serving his eighteenth year as an officer of the association.

Hennig, who is considered the sports' best booster in Neenah, was elected a director of the association in 1918, and with the exception of four years, he served as director until this year when he was named vice president.

The keger also was a manager of a state tournament, directing the tourney when it was held in Neenah and Menasha in 1938. That year, Hennig was credited with establishing a new record in the number of teams entered in a state meet.

Hennig, who is a top flight bowler, has collected prize money at state meets, smacking a 632 series at LaCrosse and pounding a 1,235 doubles count with D. Dycheim. Although his average this year is down, he hits between 185 and 190, competing in three leagues. He rolls in the Neenah City circuit, the Commercial wheel in Neenah and the Menasha City loop.

Chaff'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

WE'VE BEEN WONDERING whether Oshkosh basketball fans have taken the recent playoff for the pro league title as hard as some of the Appleton fans. And if they have, we wonder what they've been saying.

Reaction around Appleton has been "What the h— was the matter with the All-Stars? Does playing on someone else's floor make that much difference?" And so on with a few insinuations.

So we'd like to offer a thought or two.

Oshkosh won the title in a playoff with the Sheboygan Redskins. It had a couple days of rest while Akron was finishing up in the Eastern division. It's possible that Akron went into the series tired and battered and on a foreign floor it couldn't—and furthermore, didn't—play its best ball. It may have been content to gamble that it could come through at home where it would have home floor advantage and where it would be in better physical condition.

Then, too, it's possible some of the Oshkosh performers play good ball at home and make a poor team on the road. The Cubs have been classic examples of that in baseball. Also, Oshkosh won the divisional title with its rookies who may have found the continual pressure too great. Or there may be something in the competitive makeup of the 'Stars which doesn't bring championships, something which only a person closely connected with the club ever learns.

Next year's lineup probably will tell the story. Lonnie Darling has a habit of 'firing' the fellows who crack when the going gets tough. Lonnie doesn't like a loser.

Coach Paul Loftus at Seymour has a rather enviable record in track and basketball if you sit down and figure it out. He has won 16 championships in the two sports during the eight years he has taught at Seymour. And it again proves you don't have to be a player in a sport to be a keen student and a good instructor.

Here's Paul's record:

In four other years he has had to compete in Class B in track, a rather tough job when you are one of the smallest of the Class B schools.

Much of Loftus' success in basketball is due to the fact he recognizes that cage teams come from years of training and work with the boys. This year's team probably was composed of some of those half pint kids we recall some years ago when Seymour still played in the city's movie house. Loftus believes in starting them young and the kids show it in the way they get around.

Speaking of Seymour and recalling its work at the district tournament, the smaller schools are playing much better basketball than in former years. Several seasons back

16 Teams Survive at A.A.U. Cage Tourney

Denver.—In a mad scramble like the national A.A.U. basketball tournament you never know when a first-round bye is going to turn into a second-round bye by.

Sixteen teams of the 50 that began the week-long marathon answered "here" today for third-round games and only eight of these were rated good enough to draw byes in the first round.

Six other teams so complimented were hustled to the exits in their first rays and two of these were seeded quints.

The second major overthrow of the tournament occurred last night when the unusual Colorado Springs Jewelers handed out a 63-to-46 hiding to the seeded Eugene Oregonians.

The first surprise, of course, was the Salt Lake City Ekers' victory the night before over the Oklahoma City 80'ers.

The people's two choices, the national champion Denver Nuggets and the Butteville, Okla., Phillips 66 machine, runners-up last year, play their next games tonight.

The Milwaukee Allen Bradley team survived by winning from New York Ohrbachs 51 to 39.

Globe Trotters and Bruins in Pro Finals

Chicago.—(P)—Sure-shooting Wilb Kautz will be a marked man tonight when the Chicago Bruins clash with the Harlem Globe Trotters for the national pro basketball championship.

Kautz is the spark plug of the Bruins' attack which carried the team through three games to the titular test against the Harlem five, clever machine of Negro stars.

Kautz, ex-star of Loyola university of Chicago, scored 46 points in the last two nights, 24 in each game. He connected for eight field goals and eight free throws last night as the Bruins mowed down the Washington, D. C., Hourchs, 46 to 36.

Harlem qualified for the finals with an equally impressive 34 to 24 triumph over the Syracuse, N. Y., Reds.

Haney Optimistic About His St. Louis Browns Ball Team

BY FELIX R. MCKNIGHT
ST. LOUIS, Mo., (AP)—Not exactly overloaded with talent, Manager Fred Haney of the St. Louis Browns, a man of great logic, nevertheless believes his problem goes a bit deeper than the mound.

Brother Haney is one of baseball's distinctive characters. He believes he has a fair mound staff, even for a bunch of basement dwellers. He further contends that his pitching staff is just about what his infield makes it.

"Didn't I see our pitchers lose ball games last season, usually in the late innings after we had built up a lead, because maybe we were just a trifle slow on a double play, or could have stopped a hard one that got through?" he queried.

"Maybe that's going to change this summer. We have a more experienced infield now, one that can function just a little better—just enough to make a big difference in our pitching. We have good pitchers—Eldon Auker, Vernon Kennedy, Roxie Lawson, Howard Mills, Bob Harris, Jackie Kramer and some fine relief men in Nathan Andrews, big John Whitehead, Slick Coffman, Johnny Niggeling and Bill Trotter."

The infield to back them up?

Quiet George McQuinn is a solid first baseman who can hit—better than his .316 of last season. On second base will be either Johnny Berardino, the rookie sensation of last year who has acquired polish, or Don Heffner, the veteran ex-Yankee.

If Alan Strange, voted the Pacific coast's most valuable player of 1939, doesn't kick up a commotion around shortstop and hit somewhere in the vicinity of his .335 of last season, Haney is guessing wrong. Old reliable Harland Clift at third base is looking chirp again after last year's unexplainable slip to a .270 average.

"Now why shouldn't we get better with that bunch around," asks Haney.

The ball club is better balanced all around with the real power concentrated in the outfield.

"Why Joe Gallagher can hit a helluva sight better than that .277 of last season," Haney marked. "He lost 50 days from an injury. He's good for those long, extra base knocks."

"Over in center field we have two genuine hitters—Chet Laabs and Walt Juddich. Now this Juddich boy, one of the Yankee youngsters we got from Newark, is murdering the ball in spring games. Laabs is just as good. Our other two outfielders, Myril Hoag and Rip Radcliff, are known hitters. And I could use Radcliff at first base if McQuinn needs a rest."

Boston Walloped In Hockey Playoff

Bruins Badly Outplayed As They Drop 4-0 Decision to Rangers

By the Associated Press
One of the reasons for the amazing hold hockey has on the sports public is its unpredictability. If ever a game figured to be close, it was the New York Rangers-Boston Bruins opening battle in the Stanley cup play-offs in Madison Square Garden last night.

And yet the Rangers won 4-0 and left the Bruins more thoroughly outplayed than they have been for two seasons! The Bruins were never in the game.

The other play-off games, which will eventually determine a foe for the winner of the Ranger-Bruins series, were a lot more thrilling than the one that had been expected to set a new spine-tingling high.

For instance, Sylvanus Apps gave the Toronto Maple Leafs a 3-2 overtime victory over the Chicago Blackhawks.

In the third game, Syd Howe was the hero as the Detroit Red Wings had to go overtime to stop the New York Americans 2-1 in the opening game of their series.

All six teams rest today before resuming hostilities Thursday.

Training Camp Notes

By the Associated Press
BRADENTON, Fla. — The New York Yankees still are not worried about old father time. Though the present Yank pitching corps is hardly wearing out, Marvin Breuer and Tommy Reis, the right-hand rookies, up from Kansas City, have given the champs cause to cheer loudest. The two combined to shut out the Bees yesterday.

Winter Haven, Fla.—The belief that the Giants will have as good a pitching staff as any National league club continues to gain weight. Latest to give Manager Bill Terry cause to smile is Cliff Melton, the slim southpaw, who pitched four innings of shutout ball yesterday in blanking the Cleveland Indians.

St. Petersburg, Fla.—The Dodgers are likely to have Dolph Camilli all signed for their battle with the Yanks today. The stubborn first sacker sat with Larry Macphail during yesterday's victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. That will leave only Lindsay Deal, outfielder from Lenoir, N. C., unsigned.

Bradenton, Fla. — Casey Stengel of the Boston Bees seems greatly pleased with the showing of Frank Lamanna, rookie, pitcher from Evansville, especially his courage in coming back against the Yankees to retire the side after the champs had scored three runs.

Sarasota, Fla.—Dennis Galehouse, Emerson Dickman and Jim Bagby are the three hurlers Manager Joe Cronin has nominated as Red Sox pitchers today against the St. Louis Cardinals. Cronin, who has shaken his cold, played five innings yesterday and plans to be in today's line-up.

Pasadena, Calif. — Jumping over to the White Sox training camp today, the Pirates will seek revenge for the 9-7 drubbing

At Clintonville

Plywoods are Strengthened
by Former High School Stars

Clintonville—A sizzling hot New London Plywood five upset the Clintonville Auctioneers here last night 27 to 24. The Auctioneers had an off night but held the lead until midway in the third period when Pete Westphal, passer for the New London quintet, connected with several sensational one hand shots from the side to put the invaders in the lead. The Clintonville squad kept fighting back and in the last minute of play missed an easy set up shot which would have tied up the ball game.

In the first quarter the Auctioneers rolled enough shots around the rim to win any game. The Plywoods were strengthened considerably with the addition of Gordon Melkiesohn and Wally Hammerberg who just recently finished a successful season with the high school team.

Free throws were no help, the Clintonville five making only two out of eleven. New London, on the other hand, rang up seven markers via the free throw route and erred five times. From the floor the Auctioneers chalked up 11 field goals while the Plywoods hit the mark for 10 buckets.

In the first quarter, Clintonville took a 5 to 3 lead. The reserves carried the brunt for the Auctioneers in the second period and at half time stretched their lead over the Plywoods to 11 to 7. New London began pouring in the buckets the third stanza and at the end of the quarter held a four point lead, 23 to 19. The Auctioneers outscored the Plywoods 5 to 4 the last period but were still on the short end of a 24 to 27 final count.

Fenske Given Best Chance to Turn in Mile in 'Four-Flat'

Philadelphia —(AP)— A "four-flat" mile?

It's possible, three college track coaches agreed today, and they think Chuck Fenske probably is the man to do it.

Said Ben Ogden, of Temple: "It can be done, and, in my opinion it will be done in the not too distant future—very probably by Chuck Fenske."

Lawson Robertson, veteran Penn and American Olympic track coach, won't "place any limit on what Fenske will do in the future" because "he is young and is improving faster than any other runner."

Observed Jim Elliott of Villanova: "I see no reason for believing that the limit has been reached in the standard distance of a mile. Fenske, at 24, has not yet reached the peak of his running career."

Thus in the bespectacled Wisconsin runner who hung up a mark of 2:59.7 for the three-quarters at Chicago Saturday night, may be the final word in the long-discussed four-minute mile.

Milwaukee — Speaking of the law of averages, it is interesting to note that during the recent basketball season 201 personal fouls were called on the Marquette university quintet and exactly the same number on the Hilltoppers' 16 opponents.

WILD LIFE IS RENEWED

By O. Warren Smith
SPRING is the time of year when most visualize trees and plant life coming into their own after the long winter. Not so many realize that the wild animals and birds are also having their revival and that many interesting wild life pictures may be seen by the alert.

Up in my state of Wisconsin the does are having their fawns and the other animals are perpetuating their kind. There is nothing more thrilling as a sight than a young, new-born fawn. The little spotted fellows are a picture that won't soon be forgotten by those fortunate enough to come upon them.

It is not every year that even the woodsmen see many fawns for their mothers are wise in the ways of keeping the young hidden. Their coloration also is that of their surroundings and they are difficult for even the keenest eyes to see.

I have had springs where I have seen a dozen fawns and others where not one was viewed although I hunted just as diligently.

Young porcupines are worth many a camera shot. They are not as clumsy or ungainly as when they grow up and get around in their climbing as well as any of our American animals. They are clever and can be taught many tricks when domesticated. They are gentle and seldom lash out with their sharp quills unless mistreated. Then, look out.

Occasionally the lucky person can see foxes or wolves playing about in the spring. These animals are rare sights, however, for they belong to the tribes that are hunted from one season to the other and their parents are sly and watchful.

The woodchucks produce their young in the spring and it is then that the young ones may be tamed. Their taming is more of a task than taming young porcupines as the woodchucks do not take kindly to captivity.

My friend George St. Clair of Land O' Lakes often captures a young skunk and tames it. There is no more beautiful animal. The scent bag must be removed for safety when skunks are tamed or there will be trouble, but a skunk makes just as good a pet as just as smart a one as any cat that ever was a house pet.

If you are fortunate enough to have a chance to visit our Wisconsin woods in the spring or to visit any similar wilds, don't just look at the trees and blossoms, get some of the wild animal sights which are all around you. The animals are coming out just as surely as are the trees and plants.

WIRELESS TESTS

It was good fortune for young Marconi that he had a science teacher who watched the progress of science closely. This teacher—Professor Righi—taught facts about the so-called "Hertzian waves," and also made tests of them in front of his students.

Nineteen-year-old Marconi thought he might do something to make the waves help mankind. So he set up trial "stations" in a garden near his home.

Marconi at the age of 27

An electric current was started at one station, and electric waves jumped on the other side. In early days of the trials, the distance of the jump was hardly 20 feet. Later the youth sent signals across a farm.

The longest distance Marconi sent a wireless message while on the farm was eight miles. It seemed that this message must have gone right through a hill!

The success made the youth happy. He now felt he could conquer the world with his wireless waves.

At the age of 22 he made a journey to London, and asked the British government for a patent. He did not claim he had discovered the Hertzian waves. What he had done was to invent better sending and receiving instruments than had been known before, and to prove their value over a distance of miles.

Sir William Preece was at that time chief engineer of the British postal system. He was in his office one day when a visitor from Italy came to see him.

The visitor was Marconi, and in a few minutes he was telling about his work.

"I am glad you have come to explain your ideas and plans," said Preece. "We shall let you make an actual test."

Marconi set up a station inside a London postoffice, and another station on a roof outside. The distance was only about 300 feet, but it was enough for the purpose.

Click, click, click! A message was sent from one station to the other! The clicks were dots and dashes of the Morse code, and they spelled out a message.

Preece was pleased by this success. He was ready to watch the results of another test over a distance of miles.

Mayor Forecasts Better Times in Talk to Aldermen

Nelson Reviews Industrial Advances Made During Last Year

Kaukauna — Increased prosperity for Kaukauna was predicted last night by Mayor Lewis F. Nelson in a talk to the common council, the mayor describing industrial advances of the last year.

Nelson said the Kaukauna Machine Corporation, which took over the old McLoch Machine and Foundry plant in January of 1939, is now a thriving industry, employing 100, compared to 36 at the time of the sale. More than $100,000 has been spent for improvements, and $600,000 worth of orders are on the books. Two advances in wages have been given.

Rehabilitation of the old Union Bag and Paper company plant by Thilmany Pulp and Paper company eventually will mean about 100 additional employees, Nelson continued. The Thilmany company has constructed a $45,000 addition to the mill and spent $100,000 for bag equipment during the last year. Power purchases have risen from $66,000 in 1929 to $133,000 in 1939. Nelson cited these investments as assuring a permanent place for the company in Kaukauna.

28TH BIRTHDAY

If it were big enough, Mrs. Harvey
S. Mudd, Beverly Hills, Cal., new Girl Scout president, would share Scout's 28th birthday cake with all Girl Scouts.

Usable for all occasions, Greenwood stated.

A petition was reading asking that Green street be straightened, signed by 35 persons. Alderman Mertes said the improvement had been up before the council before and was even more necessary now, with increased traffic. The corner was hazardous for motorists and pedestrians, and part of the corner lot could now be purchased to straighten the street, he said. It was referred to the board of public works.

Also referred to the board was a request of Thilmany Pulp and Paper company to lay railroad tracks across Thilmany road, to store 10-000 cords of wood.

Mrs. Peter Lorenzen, 504 W. Division street, wrote that due to a defective sidewalk she had recently fallen on Wisconsin avenue between Lawe and Desnoyer streets, suffered injuries, and was going to send the bill to the city. An application of Peter Hermans, 71 High street, for the position of bridge tender, was placed on file.

Firemen are Called
When Basket Ignites

Kaukauna — The fire department was called to the home of Leo Benoch, 124 E. Tabacour street, at 5:55 yesterday afternoon when a basket of clothes on top of a kerosene stove caught fire.

Firemen put out a chimney fire at 9 o'clock at the home of Amay Bavorgne, 225 Doty street. There was no damage.

Nine Kaukauna Cagers
Will Receive Letters

Kaukauna — Nine high school basketball players will receive letters, according to Coach Guy Krumm.
They are Bill Alger, Karl Giordana,
Don Bisels, Junior Swedberg, Joe Block, Bill Tessin, Willis Ranquette, Lee Cooper and Ken Busse.
Clifford Damro will receive a manager's letter.

Sees Relief Hike

Alderman Jule Mertes, chairman of the relief committee, reported he relief roll was in danger of being increased, as 18,000 Wisconsin VPA workers were to be dropped by June, meaning a loss of one-third in Kaukauna.

The poor committee has scheduled a meeting with city physicians Thursday night to discuss means of educating relief medical costs. Mertes reported Mertes spoke of two fatal accidents in the last year at ataw street and Wisconsin avenue, and asked that some measures be taken to make the intersection safe.
The problem was referred to the city and police committee.

George R. Greenwood, representing the Kaukauna Advancement association, exhibited welcome banners to be displayed at the May and tournament, which Greenwood and would bring 3,000 to the city in each of two Saturdays. The council voted $300 to help purchase banners. Fifty will be bought now and thirty later, with the decorations.

Kaukauna Council
Sells Paper Mill
To Chicago Group

Contract Provides Plant Must be Used for Paper Manufacture

Kaukauna — The common council last night sold the Outagamie mill property to Joseph, Abbe and Samuel J. Cohen of Chicago, in an outright transaction for which the city receives $4,000.

By a vote of 9 to 1, with Alderman Otto M. Ludtke objecting, the council gave the Cohen brothers preference over a group including Milford J. Taylor of Appleton and Daniel McCarty of Kaukauna, which had been negotiating with the city for months.

Under the terms of the contract,
the mill must be used for paper manufacture for five years, with this clause binding other owners for the period. A clause was added stating that local workers will be given employment where qualified.

At least $10,000 fire insurance must be carried on the property.
The utility reserves rights necessary for development and operation of the new power plant. The mill is given 1,500,000 gallons of water per day for use in manufacturing paper, from the forebay, and may draw unlimited gallonage from the tailrace.
A surety bond of $5,000 is to be posted guaranteeing the mill's operation. None of the machinery can be dismantled or sold unless it is replaced.

After the reading of the contract,
Ludtke, who throughout the discussion seemed to favor leasing the property to the Taylor group, asked that these men be heard, and that the property be disposed of after open debate. An agreement which this group had with the city provided for a lease at $1 a month, with a certain number of men to be employed.

Other Side Heard
Carl Hofmeyer, Milwaukee representative of this group, reported on its financial state to the aldermen, saying he was certain the property could be taken over within a short time, as most of the necessary capital had been secured. Taylor said that from 95 to 115 men would be employed. Ludtke stated the important thing was to get men to work—if the property was sold for $4,000 the city had nothing more to say, and Alderman Jule Mertes added there was no guarantee from

Woman's Club Will Entertain County Federation Tuesday

Kaukauna — Because of a widespread effort to bring women of rural and urban sections together, more frequently the Kaukauna Woman's club will act as host to women of the Outagamie County Federation at its next meeting here March 26. The Lawrence college debate team will argue the question
"Should the United States Be Isolated from European Nations at War?"
It is planned to have Carroll college students debate. The social committee is composed of Mrs.
George Dogot, Mrs. Henry W. Olin,
Mrs. A. R. Mill, Mrs. R. J. Deloria,
Mrs. Edward Burdick, Mrs. M. F.
Gifford and Miss Marie Lenzmeyer.

Loyal Order of Moose nominated officers as the group met Monday evening at Martens hall. Officers will be elected April 1. A group from the Kaukauna lodge is planning to attend a district meeting at Fond du Lac March 26.

Woman's Benefit association will meet at 8 o'clock tonight at Martens hall. Following the business meeting a social hour will be held, with Mrs. Lena Macrorie and Mrs.
Marion Licht in charge.

The Cohen brothers when work would begin.

Alderman T. L. Seggelink said he was getting tired of alibis and wanted the mill question settled. Samuel J. Cohen said he was present to close the deal, and that it was intended to operate the mill, not using it for a stock venture. The mill could not be run by one group with less men than by another, Cohen stated.

Local Labor

Ludtke objected the mill could be taken and sold again, to which Seggelink replied it must be sold to another paper manufacturing company. Ludtke brought in another angle when he suggested the new owners might bring in outside workers, the mill might fail, and thus the relief load would be increased. Cohen expressed his willingness to include the clause providing for hiring local labor. Alderman Chris Kindler's resolution approving the sale met only Ludtke's objection. Cohen said repairs at the mill would be started at once.

Cohen said that manufacturing would not be confined to any specialty, but that any order received would be filled. It will be from 60 to 90 days before electrical power for operations will be available. H.
F. Weckwerth, utility superintendent brought out.

President Holds Press Conference Despite His Cold

Tells Why Airplanes are Being Sold to Allies

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — For several days now President Roosevelt has been battling with a cold, and unfortunately when the chief executive is in that dilemma events no right on and this makes it imperative for him to issue certain impressions and counteract others before they gain too much momentum.

Thus the president undoubtedly met the press on Tuesday of this week in order to straighten out a number of things of vital importance and, fever or no fever, he could restrain himself no longer from telling the world in his customary way what the American government is doing.

Thus the president set at rest the rumors that America was selling to Britain and France airplanes which had military devices needed for our own air force. He showed how important it was for American airplane production to be built up for defense purposes and pointed out that the allies wanted to buy only effective planes and America was supplying them and at the same time increasing her own plant capacity three times over. As for secrets he said they were few and were, of course, protected.

Mr. Roosevelt took occasion to deny at the same press conference that he had ever said that Postmaster General Farley's religion was a bar to the latter's vice presidential candidacy. The president had had only one press conference prior to this week and had not had an opportunity before to discuss the published article relating to Mr. Farley. Friends of the postmaster general are very happy today that the president took notice of the episode and expressed his concurrence in the words of the address of Mr. Farley last Saturday night in which a plea for religious tolerance in politics was made.

Overseas News

But the most important action taken by the president was his manner of handling the news from overseas about the conferences between Hitler and Mussolini. Mr. Roosevelt made it clear that nobody knows—neither the president of the United States nor the pope nor any other government—just what Hitler and Mussolini talked about. This was but a gentle way of reminding the American people of what autonomy and dictatorship really mean when the heads of two governments without consulting any other governments or, indeed, their own people, can make decisions of vital consequence to peace or war.

Incidentally the formal statement issued by Undersecretary Welles at Rome was in itself significant and must have been discussed by the president.

DANCERS TEAMED IN NEW PICTURE

Teaming for the first time Fred Astaire and Eleanor Powell, world's greatest male and feminine tap dancers, "Broadway Melody of 1940" opens at the Appleton Theatre Saturday. To give the two stars the best possible musical settings, Cole Porter, who has written music for both Astaire and Miss Powell starring vehicles, was signed to do the tunes for this picture. The composer of "Night and Day" has produced five new songs for "Broadway Melody of 1940," and use is made for the first time on the screen of his sensational "Begin the Beguine." With the two stars is George Murphy, among Hollywood's leading dance stars. The rest of the cast includes Frank Morgan, Ian Hunter, Florence Rice, Lynne Carver, and Ann Morris.

Described as the most unusual picture of the year, "The Earl of Chicago" is the second feature on this program. Starring Robert Montgomery and featuring such stars as Reginald Owen, Edmund Gwenn, E. E. Clive, and Norman Varden.

ident. Mr. Welles declared that he had not received any peace offers from any neutral or belligerent government and that his mission was fact-finding.

This is in line with what has been understood from the beginning of the Welles mission, namely that the undersecretary would bring back the information and facts and then Mr. Roosevelt would decide whether the report warranted the making of any mediation proposals.

The fact that the White House, earlier in the same day that the president held his press conference, saw fit to indicate to the newspapers that the chances of peace were neither enhanced nor diminished by the discussion of Hitler and Mussolini, so far as this government was aware, doubtless has a bearing on the unsettled in the security markets this week, arising out of peace rumors.

Economic Damage

It is recognized here that much economic damage can be done by rumors of peace that seem to have an official sanction. Also the American government does not wish to be placed in the position of either advancing or retarding the peace movement until it is ready to take some definite action. If Mr. Welles, on piecing together his information can suggest a peace basis, it will be after considerable discussion at this end on his return before any such mediation offer is made and then possibly the events in which Hitler and Mussolini are now engaged may alter the whole timing of America's peace efforts.

The president is plainly concerned, if not uneasy, about the Hitler-Mussolini meeting at the Brenner pass. While Mr. Welles saw Foreign Minister Ciano at Rome and had an opportunity to get further impresleast the presentation to Mr. Welles of a united front and a determination not to recede from any peace terms that might have been mentioned previously to the American envoy.

For the moment, the president feels the American press should neither anticipate an early peace nor despair of its achievement, but should comment cautiously on what is happening abroad—a suggestion that doubtless reflects his own uncertainty as to the meaning of latest developments. Undoubtedly he felt the turn of events had reached such an important stage that he could not afford to omit his press conference, but must take the risks that go with getting out of bed while suffering from a feverish cold in order to indicate, as best he could, the trend of affairs abroad as it relates to America's efforts for peace.

Since President Lincoln signed the Homestead Act, about 275,000,000 acres of Federal land have been transferred to settlers.

Miss Margaret Ashmun Funeral Services are Held at Stevens Point

Waupaca — Among those who attended the funeral services for Miss Margaret Ashmun, educator and author, who died at a West Springfield, Mass., hospital and was buried Monday afternoon at Stevens Point were Attorney Tom Browne, Mrs. Katherine Beardmore, Miss Mae McKenzie, Waupaca; Mrs. Tom Potts, Mrs. William Barlow, Mr. and Mrs. George Potts, Miss Belva Potts, Truman Potts, Miss Bertha Parker and Miss Carolyn O'Berg, Rural. Miss Ashmun, 65, was born at Rural, town of Dayton, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Ashmun. Her early education was received in Waupaca High school from which she was graduated in 1892. She then attended the Stevens Point Normal and later the University of Wisconsin from which she was graduated in 1904. She taught English at the University from 1907 until 1912 when she received her master's degree. Prior to this she spent some time in Montana.

In 1912 Miss Ashmun removed to New York to engage in literary work.

Among her books were "Pa, The Head of the Family," "The Lake," which finds its theme among the people of her early home community, the scene of which was laid on Miner lake, "Topless Towers," dedicated to Mrs. Blanche Nordvi, a member of the high school faculty of Waupaca for many years; "The Isabel Carlton Series for Girls" is to be found in all public libraries as are many of her text books.

For years Miss Ashmun had maintained the family homestead at Rural and much of her time until two years ago was spent there.

General John J. Pershing's first military service was as a second lieutenant of cavalry in the Arizona Indian campaign in 1885 and 1886.

Democratic Group Convenes at Manawa

Waupaca — Plans to "rebuild the Democratic organization in Waupaca county" were discussed Monday evening at a meeting of the recently formed Democratic Party Organization of Waupaca county, at Manawa.

R. C. MacLaughlin, former candidate for sheriff and now secretary-treasurer of the group, charged that "the party in this county has been sold out and double-crossed so often that it had become the laughing stock of local politics."

"Selfish party leaders have taken the control from the rank and file," the speaker said, "and used it for political horse trading to secure personal benefits. As a result, loyal Democrats have become discouraged and the county organization has fallen apart at the seams. To correct this lamentable state of affairs, we must restore party control to the rank and file.

"This opportunity is offered us," he continued, "by electing the slate of delegates pledged to President Roosevelt or the man of his choice for the Democratic nomination, the slate endorsed by the Democratic Party organization of Wisconsin at its statewide conference in Milwaukee. If these candidates are successful we will see party control wrested from a selfish few."

President D. H. Ray, Waupaca, announced that the county group plans a rally Monday at Manawa.
